Disaster Mine Repaired; Men Ready To Work

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill — (AP) —"You must forget—you can't sit back, even after a disaster like this."

The words are those of Sherman Whitlow, president of the United Mine Workers' local union which lost 119 members in that tragic pre-Christmas coal mine explosion.

Like the others who escaped the Dec. 21st blast, Whitlow is ready to go back to work in Orient No. 2 as soon as it reopens.

In Their Blood

"Sure, it will be a long time before we get over it, but they'll all go back," Whitlow said today. "It's in their blood."

Mayor C. Edwin Hair of nearby Benton put it a little stronger. He said: "Yes, the miners will all go back. In fact, there will be two applicants for every vacancy created by the explosion."

Whitlow concedes it's hard to explain the stoic attitude of a coal miner. Perhaps, he said, it's easier to point out it is the only life he knows.

A cleanup crew of about 100 men already is at work repairing the blasted workings. The power is on again. Permanent ventilation has been re-established.

About 1,100 men were employed at the mine before the disaster—some 200 of them on the night shift when the blast struck.

A spokesman for management—the Chicago, Wilmington and Franklin Coal Co.—doesn't know when the mine will reopen but he said it won't be until after an investigators' report is completed. He added that may be next week.

Widows Paid

The report is being prepared by federal and state officials who investigated the explosion, which they said was set off by ignition of methane gas.

What about the widows of the blast victims? All the funerals are over and most of them appear to have recovered from that first

Gov. Williams Is Dark Horse

BOSTON — (AP) — Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams is listed by Gov. A. Dever (D-Mass) as a "possibility" for an alternate candidate for president if President Truman does not want another term.

Dever told a news conference yesterday that there is a grass roots move among Democratic governors and other party members at the state level to offer the Democratic national convention an alternate candidate if Mr. Truman is "not available."

Other party leaders indicate that "some of the people prominent in Washington life would be unacceptable" as candidates in place of Truman, Dever said. He added:

"It is my thought that the vigor of the Democratic party is well exemplified in some of the fine Democratic governors in important and crucial states. I think their qualifications for president merit increased public interest and scrutiny."

Besides Williams, he named Govs Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Henry Streicher of Indiana, Sid McMath of Arkansas and Gordon Browning of Tennessee.

Dever emphasized, "we are enthusiastic for Mr. Truman if he wants another term. But if he is not available, we intend to be articulate at the national convention."

GLADSTONE AP CORRESPONDENT — Tom Masterson, Associated Press foreign correspondent formerly of Gladstone, embarked today on the C&NW "400" enroute to New York City where he will receive curative treatment of a leg and hip injury incurred in Singapore. He was beaten while covering the court fight of a Dutch mother and a Malayan nurse over custody of a white child. During the hearing in 1950, a frenzied mob stormed the Associated Press car in which Masterson and another correspondent, Larry Allen, were riding and attacked the newspapermen. The mob violence grew out of a protest of the Malayans to the mother's claims to the child and her attempt to repatriate the child who had been orphaned in the Far East and was betrothed to a Malayan. Masterson hopes to return to foreign service after his hospitalization and a five months' vacation. He was visiting his mother, Mrs. Emily Masterson, and sister, Helen Masterson, of 1212 Dakota avenue, Gladstone, over the past holidays.

Split Ship Taken In Tow; Captain Remains On Board

By ERNEST AGNEW

LONDON — (AP) — Weary Capt. Kurt Carlsen, shrouded in fog and drizzling rain, grabbed a line from the bow of his split freighter Flying Enterprise today and the hurricane-beaten vessel was taken in tow.

Still making good his vow to stay aboard the wallowing ship "until I'm towed or sunk," the Danish-born skipper from Woodbridge, N. J., stayed put "in case the tow parts."

May Break In Two

The tow job is hazardous, and as long as he remained on the Flying Enterprise there was a chance he might be cast adrift again by a broken tow hawser. There also was a possibility the ship might break in two at its split midrift before the 320 perilous miles to Falmouth, Eng., are covered at slow pace.

The 4,000-horsepower tug Turmoil churned the Atlantic with her broad-bladed propellors as the Flying Enterprise slowly began to skid through the water on her port side. The vessel was listing as much as 80 degrees in the swells, but her shifted cargo of 2,650 tons appeared to have stabilized her at about 65 degrees list.

Skipper Jubilant

The U. S. destroyer Willard Keith, which took over standby duties in the rescue effort this morning, radioed this report to U. S. Navy headquarters in London:

"Turmoil passed towing gear to Flying Enterprise's bow with Captain Carlsen and the Turmoil's mate (Kenneth Dancy) handling it in the bow.

"There is no change in the

Rise In Potato Prices Halted

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government today ordered a 5 to 10 per cent rollback in the price of white potatoes, one of the nation's biggest food items.

Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle signed the order last night bringing potatoes under control, effective Jan. 19.

The action was hailed by the Maine potato industry, whose sales had been slowed to a walk by uncertainty over what might happen, as a move that would "put it back in business."

An OPS official told reporters the order sets ceilings at the shippers-wholesale level. Another regulation is due to fix top prices in stores for consumers.

Potato prices have more than doubled since mid-December, 1950. They were selling a year ago for .889 cents a bushel. Last Dec. 15, the average price received by farms was $1.93 a bushel.

Carferry Launched At Sturgeon Bay For Chesapeake & Ohio

STURGEON BAY, Wis. — (AP) —The SS. Spartan, 410-foot carferry named in honor of Michigan State College, was safely afloat today despite her "unlucky" luanching day.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway carferry was launched yesterday at the Christy Corp. shipyards in defiance of marine superstitution that Friday launchings are unlucky.

Just before the big ship slid sidewise down greased planks, workmen fastened a dummy canvas container aft, simulating the traditional bottle of champagne. But the Spartan will not be formally christened until spring when her sister ship, the SS. Badger, is launched.

The Badger is named in honor of the University of Wisconsin. The two carferries cost $4,500,000 each.

Churchill Arrives To Renew Old Ties With U. S. President

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON — (AP) — British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, arriving for momentous talks on Anglo-American relations, told President Truman today that cooperation of their two countries can assure "peace and hope and salvation on earth for struggling mankind."

Churchill was welcomed by Mr. Truman as he stepped down from the president's personal airplane which brought the prime minister here from New York for his first visit to America since 1949.

Two Expert Handshakers

The two shook hands warmly, and Mr. Truman told Churchill:

"Mr. Prime Minister, I can't tell you when I have had more pleasure than I have had today in welcoming you to the United States of America.

"Great Britain and the United States have always been the closest friends. We want to keep them that way."

He added he was sure they would do so.

After Churchill had responded and made his reference to peace, Mr. Truman added a last word, "Peace on earth is what we are both striving for."

Churchill, pastmaster at personal diplomacy, said the two western powers "must understand each other," when he held a brief news conference at a Brooklyn pier after his transoceanic voyage on the liner Queen Mary. He said he hoped the four days of the Washington talks would raise the relations between America and Britain above "the paper level."

Four Days of Talk

Churchill summed up the purpose of his journey in these words:

"To establish that close and intimate understanding between heads of government on both sides of the ocean so that we may deal with the events of the future with a knowledge of the other's point of view."

Asked, too, during his brief stop over in Brooklyn whether the Russians' threat to peace had grown or lessened in recent months, Churchill replied:

"I don't think there is any greater danger now than at the time of the Berlin airlife, provided we take prudent measures."

Ten minutes after the plane had landed, the ceremonies were over. The president, the prime minister and their aides then left in a long string of automobiles for Blair House.

Four days of top-level conferences will follow.

Jealousy Hinted In Layle Ouster

LANSING, Mich. — (AP) — Testimony of internal strife within the state military establishment continued today as former Gov. Kim Sigler began the defense of Col. Herbert F. Layle, suspended state quartermaster general.

As an ouster hearing against Layle continued before Gov. Williams, Maj Gen. Ralph A. Loveland, commanding general of the National Guard, produced additional evidence of the strife.

After Layle recommended five state troop units in Detroit instead of the 18 directed by Gov. Williams, Loveland said, Brig. Gen. George B. Ely, state troop commander, was "so mad he couldn't talk straight."

Sigler charged last night that internal jealousies in the state military establishment were at the root of ouster proceedings against Layle.

The charge was made as Sigler cross-examined Brig. Gen. George C. Moran, state adjutant general, at a 12-hour hearing yesterday which ended near midnight.

The two crossed swords when Sigler asked him:

"Aren't you dissatisfied that you are not running the whole show?"

Allies Will Not Be Scared Into Truce, Korean Reds Told

BY OLEN CLEMENTS

MUNSAN, Korea—(AP)—Frayed tempers snapped today as truce negotiators haggled over how to police a Korean armistice. From both sides of the conference table came angry charges and blunt warnings. There was no progress toward a truce.

A U. N. delegate warned that the allies will not be forced to bow to Communist armistice demands by the threat of growing Red air power.

Language Gets Rough

"You have cast yourself in the role of a bandit x x x," said Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner.

"You have fully exposed your ugly, ferocious features of a bandit x x x," retorted Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang.

Saturday's session of the truce supervision subcommittee was brief but bitter. Turner lambasted the Reds in replying to a statement made Friday by Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang.

"You suggested that if the U. N. commander was so concerned for the security of his forces he should withdraw from Korea," Turner said. "What a typical piece of upside down reasoning."

"We have no intention of walking away under a threat of your development of air power during the armistice and leaving the South Koreans to your tender mercies."

The issue of air field construction during an armistice is the major stumbling block barring agreement on how to police a truce. The United Nations insist that no military air bases be built or repaired in North Korea, although a limited number of fields could be put in condition for civilian use.

The Communists contend that any restrictions on airfield construction constitute interference in North Korea's internal affairs.

The negotiators spent most of their time Saturday wrangling over such irrelevant matters as who started the war.

Big White Pine Loan Approved

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The writing of an RFC loan agreement to develop the White Pine Copper Mine in Northern Michigan is "in its final stages," Rep. Bennett (R-Mich) reported today.

The Reconstruction Finance Corp., on Nov. 15 approved a $57,185,000 loan to the Copper Range Co., owner of the White Pine deposit, one of the biggest in North America.

Haggling over terms has held up signing of the loan agreement. However, Bennett told a reporter these details are being ironed out and the agreement probably will be signed next week.

Bennett also disclosed that the Defense Minerals Procurement Agency and Copper Range are about to complete negotiations on a procurement contract.

Signing of the loan agreement and procurement contract will be the signal for construction to start at the mine site in Ontonagon county, Bennett said. The company has estimated that within three years it can produce up to 35,000 tons of copper annually at the mine.

Creeping House Slips Down Slope To Doom At Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Calif.—(AP)— The doom of the creeping house has been pronounced.

"It's moving inch by inch, foot by foot and it can't be stopped," said Assistant City Engineer Earl Buckingham. "Somebody will pick it up for kindling soon."

He was talking about Mr. and Mrs. Morton J. Kramer's $15,000 house atop a 125-foot embankment. The bank beneath the frame structure began shifting Thursday, and as it moved the house moved with it. By late yesterday the home had shifted 10 feet down the 30-degree slope.

Federal Agents Go After Kings Of Drug Racket

Grand Jury Indicts 34 At Detroit

DETROIT — (AP)—Thirty-four persons, 21 of them arrested only hours before, were indicted here yesterday by a federal grand jury on charges of narcotics law violations.

If convicted under new, tougher federal statues they face mandatory jail sentences—as do more than 500 others caught in a nation-wide dragnet designed to dry up sources of narcotics going to teen-agers and veteran addicts.

Wholesalers Caught

First offenders convicted under the new laws get a mandatory jail sentence of two years, second offenders get five years, and third offenders get 10 years.

Narcotics bureau agents are looking for the 13 others indicted here.

Among those caught up in Detroit, Assistant District Attorney J. Connor Austin said were the leading wholesale and retail outlets for heroin and marihuana in Michigan.

All Negroes

With one exception, all those arrested here stood mute upon arraginment before U. S. District Judge Arthur F. Lederle. The 21st, Donald Haskins, 22, of Detroit pleaded guilty and awaits sentence.

District Supervisor Irwin I. Greenfield of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, said the Detroit arrests were the result of two months work and that each one represented a purchase of dope made by an agent.

All those jailed here were Negroes. Three were women.

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Federal agents prowled through the sinister narcotics underworld today, seeking even bigger game than any of the 500 suspected dope peddlers already seized in a sweeping nationwide dragnet.

Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger said the roundup, which started before dawn yesterday and continued around the clock today, is laying the groundwork for capture of some of the nation's biggest illicit drug dealers.

Lives Risked

A grand jury investigation already under way will lead to capture of some national racket kings

Capac Worker Buried Under Gravel Rescued

CAPAC, Mich. — (AP)—"It's a funny feeling," said Carl Hauff, buried yesterday for more than two hours under 42,000 pounds of gravel.

But after fellow workmen dug him free, he said, "I feel fine."

Hauff, 49, had been trying to loosen a crust of frozen gravel on top of a bin so it could flow down through a hopper onto trucks below.

The crust gave way and the flowing gravel enveloped Hauff.

Rescuers frantically dug the gravel away, but could not keep up with the downward flow. Finally they cut a hole in the side of the bin so the gravel drained off from around Hauff's head. Then they got a rope under his arms and pulled him free.

Jets And MIGs Clash; No Score

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

SEOUL — (AP) — American Sabre jets and Communist MIGs tangled in a 20-minute aerial duel over northwest Korea today but neither side inflicted any damage.

The clash between 21 Allied F-86s and 40 MIG-15s was the first aerial combat since Thursday. Sabre jets were grounded Friday by snow.

Another Sabre jet flight sighted 25 MIGs between Sinanju and Sinuiju but neither side made a firing pass.

Overnight fighter - bombers claimed destruction or damage to 80 enemy vehicles in attacks on an estimated 1,200 vehicles moving under cover of darkness.

United Nations forces on the western front, an Eighth Army communique said, launched a counteraction west of Korangpo early Saturday "to complete re-establishment of advanced positions" lost to Reds Dec. 28.

Traffic At Straits Held Up 5½ Hours By Disabled Ferry

ST. IGNACE, Mich.—(AP) — Ferry service at the Straits of Mackinac was delayed five and a half hours today when the state ferry City of Petoskey developed wheel trouble.

The first ferry was scheduled to leave St. Ignace at 6 a. m. but didn't get going until 11:30 a. m.

The railroad ferry Chief Wafatan made the first trip from St. Ignace.

The state ferry City of Munising replaced the Petoskey this afternoon. It was not known immediately how long it would take to repair the Petoskey. Officials said the wheel trouble was not caused by the ice.

Buses between the Upper and Lower peninsulas were delayed by the break in ferry service.

Political Show About Ready To Go In Lansing

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING— (AP) —They come not like warriors to the fray, but like jugglers and jongleurs pattering into the wings to await their cues.

They come armed with fancy tricks, eye-dazzling displays, beautiful music—not with the sword of conquest.

They do not expect to win a fight, but to delay, to outshine each other, to hold the audience in until the big show in November.

Message Thursday

They are the Republicans and Democrats assembling for the 1952 legislative session.

Governor Williams has so many prizes in his bag he has had to drop a few to carry the remainder, but he will loose the zipper with fanfare next Thursday in his annual message to the lawmakers.

The Republican policy committee will let go its skyrockets early next week, its promise of a program for the next four months of legislative debate.

But the audience mustn't expect these stunts to swell into a soul-satisfying spectacle. The players themselves don't.

Each is actually advertising their principals and principles for the biggest show next fall when both political parties face the people in the general election.

Finances Are Mess

At stake then is the election of a governor, U. S. Senator, state cabinet and legislature, as well as Michigan's share of choosing the next president of the United States.

These are too high stakes to let either side get too much in the limelight as the campaign gets under way.

The people, in the opinion of legislative veterans, should be prepared for a record pulling and hauling in the 1952 session.

The state's finances are in a mess, Michigan virtually is bankrupt, the tax problem is unsettled and a host of important state issues await solution.

But neither Republican nor Democrat privately expects any answers out of the session opening Wednesday.

Governor Williams, the Democratic leader, will present the peo-

Doctor In Deal For Pequaming

MARINETTE, Wis.—(AP)—A Marinette physician and his sister were identified Friday as members of a syndicate that bought the Upper Michigan town of Pequaming from the Ford Motor Co. Wednesday.

Dr. C. H. Boren of the Boren clinic, Miss Esther G. Boren, and Atty. Lawrence P. Walsh of Ontonagon purchased the company town. Walsh said Wednesday that the townsite would be developed for industrial and resort purposes. The Borens confirmed Friday that they are associated with Walsh in the purchase.

The town consists of 390 acres, 72 houses, 82 sheds and garages, three grade schools, a high school, a commissary, a community building, a postoffice building, a sawmill and other buildings.

Three families now live in the town, which in 1940 had 251 inhabitants. Pequaming was built by a lumber company and the property was acquired by Ford in 1923. The plant, which includes a saw mill, powerhouse and maintenance building, quit operating in 1942.

Airlift Made Ready To Speed Return Of Prisoners To U. S. A.

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

TOKYO—(AP)—A giant airlift is being organized to speed home the 3,198 American prisoners of war held by the Communists in North Korean POW camps, if and when they are released.

It is unofficially dubbed "Operation Homecoming."

The men will be given medical examinations then flown immediately to Japan for care and rest.

A man in good health on his release will be booked quickly for flight home and within about five days should be on his way.

The planes will fly at least two routes from Japan to the United States but the number to be sent over each probably won't be decided until the airlift is about to go into operation. One route is over the Central Pacific to San Francisco via Honolulu. The other is the northern route to Seattle via Alaska.

So far, no agreement has been reached between the U. N. Allies and the Communists on actual release of prisoners.

Armistice negotiators of both sides at Panmunjom have been wrangling over the issue for a month and there appears no likelihood of any exchange before a full armistice goes into effect.

During the past few weeks, a crew has been employed at clearing the slash of last year's timber cutting alongside the Nahma-Junction highway.

Workmen soon will begin enlarging and modernizing the five rustic cottages on the Nahma beach so that each will consist of two bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bathroom. Improvements are planned at the Nahma hotel. Interior painting and clean-up also has started in the community center building.

Paralyzed Mother, 21, Gives Birth To Baby

VENTURA, Calif. — (AP) — A woman who has been paralyzed from the waist down since her spinal cord was severed in an auto crash four years ago has given birth to a baby.

Her physician, Dr. Harry E. Barker, performed a caesarean section. He said the birth was the fourth of its kind on medical record. The child, a 7-pound, 3-ounce boy, was born to Anna Caterlin, 21-year-old wife of an oil field worker. Half an hour after the operation she was sitting up in bed writing birth announcements. It was her first child.

Dr Barker said no anaestheaic was necessary because of Mrs. Caterlin's paralytic condition. Although confined to a wheel chair, she manages to do most of her housework, and her only special convenience is an ironing board.

Heavy Cruisers Will Be U. S. Missile Ships

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Navy soon will begin converting two heavy cruisers into the world's first known guided missile warships.

It was learned the 13,600-ton Canberra and Boston, which have been in the mothball fleet, will sail from the west coast, probably within a week, to east coast yards for a start on the remodeling.

An authorative navy source said the navy expects that when extensive changes have been completed guided missiles for their main armament will be ready. This source declined to say how much time would be needed either for conversion of the cruisers or for perfection of missiles for their new era batteries.

Funds In Budget

Funds for a start on the conversion work are contained in the navy's current budget, it was explained.

The two cruisers are of the Baltimore class, ten of which went into the mothball fleet after World War II. The main armament of this class consists of nine eight-inch guns in two foreward and one after turrets. Both ships were commissioned in 1943.

Normally, a major conversion of a warship, such as an aircraft carrier, takes from one to two years. Conversion into a guided missile ship — an entirely new field—might require even more time.

Then, too, there are indications that at least that long may be needed to bring into practical, operational form a true long range guided missile for shipboard use. The navy announced about a year ago award of a contract for production of small missiles for shipboard use of the fleet, but these are anti-aircraft type. Major problem in long range missiles is not in attaining distance, but in guidance over the earth's curves.

New Fire Control

A high official, discussing the program with a reporter, said one of the first questions to be settled in the cruiser conversion was to decide on what equipment and structure should be removed from the ships. Obviously, he pointed out, the main batteries would be stripped off, since the bombardment firepower would be in the missile batteries. Big guided missiles could use either conventional or atomic warheads.

His comment also made it apparent that the ships' fire control system would be radically new. Conventional sighting and gunfire spotting systems will be of no use when the target may be scores or hundreds of miles inland or an enemy fleet cruising leagues beyond the horizon. The new fire control systems plainly must include radar devices to show the course and keep the missile on the initial phase of its path after launching. Entirely new storage and handling systems also will be needed.

It seemed quite possible that even the secondary armament of the guided missile ships—the weapons used for their own defense—might undergo change, with the antiaircraft missiles which the navy has ordered into production replacing the five-inch, dual-purpose guns.

More Vessels Available

The official said, in answer to a question, that if the experiment with the cruiser conversion proves satisfactory the navy might decide to use some of its mothballed battleships in the same program. It has in addition to the 45,000-ton Iowa class battlewagons now in commission six fast battleships of the Indiana, South Dakota and North Carolina class.

This official said he thought it better to use mothballed cruisers or battleships which are complete and have all their costly propulsion machinery, ready to run.

That appeared to rule out the chance that the navy might turn to the partially-completed Kentucky and Hawaii. The navy announced in 1946 that these two ships—the former an Iowa-class battleship and the latter a 27,000-ton battlecruiser—would be converted into guided missile ships. But two years later the navy decided (for reasons of economy and because the guided missile program was taking longer than expected) that the conversion project should be stopped.

Cpl. Kurlh R. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Peterson of Gladstone, was designated the 18th Infantry Regiment's "Soldier of the Week" in Aschaffenburg, Germany.

To earn this regimental honor, Cpl Peterson was top man through the elimnation selection processes at company, battalion and regimental level. Based on soldierly appearance and bearing, "Soldier of the Week" is the most coveted title in the regiment.

In the preceding week's selections, Peterson was runner-up to the title, then on Dec. 8, he took the elimination by an easy lead over his nearest competitor.

The 18th Infantry Regiment, one of three infantry regiments comprising and 1st Infantry Division, was known as the "Big Red One" in both World Wars I and II. Activated during the War of 1812, the 18th Infantry, of which Peterson is a member, has since participated in all wars and major campaigns involving the security of the United States.

Cpl. Peterson, a tank crewman, now has two such honors to his credit winning the title for the week of December 16-22.

System Leads To Corruption

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK— The sin of a wrecked economy is most evident in a collapse of the moral scaffolding that keeps men basically honest. If there is an answer to the bust-up of our general decencies, you can drop it almost squarely at the door of economic uncertainty—spiralling prices, devalued currency, ravenous taxation. On all three counts we have whipped the free horse nearly to death—and then profess surprise when the citizens start to take the short cuts.

During the war I saw ruinous inflation come to several countries, especially Italy, and the downfall of mass morality—of honesty, decency, and pride—was almost immediate. People stole and lied, who had never stolen nor lied. People killed for as little as a package of cigarettes or a pair of shoes. The streets were full of women who did not belong on the streets.

The downfall of homely virtue is easily understandable when you consider that from waking to sleeping man is concerned with a simple problem: How do I make a living today, and a living tomorrow? How do I feed and clothe and house myself and my family? The average man will do it honestly if possible. If he cannot do it honestly he will do it the best way he can.

"Keeping Money" Counts

The heaviest single drive I know of today, in the face of prices and taxes, is man's urge toward "keeping money". It is a phrase you hear continually—"How can I make some money I can keep?" Not just money. The taxes grab just money. But keepin' money. Cash money. Unmarked, unaccountable money. Stashing-away money.

This means heavy expense-account money, which keeps a heavy sector of our mildly salaried populace alive, and provides the big luxuries for the more highly paid and highly taxed citizens. The gin-mills, the plush hotels, the cafes and the theaters of the land live on expense-account money, lavishly tossed because Uncle Sam would get it anyhow.

But that isn't keepin' money. That's spendin' money. Spendin' money is what you blow on entertainment of people, like government officials or influence peddlers, who can show you some tricks that will allow you to squirrel away some holding money for tomorrow. That is where the fast shuffle takes over.

There are two or three legal ways to make and keep money today. One is off oil ventures. One is off capital gains, where you buy and hang onto a property or a stock for six months and then sell it. This kind of investment can be sold for a penalty of only 26 per cent, leaving the seller a three-quarter profit. A rigged stock, an unsuspected business merger or expansion, the right word on a real estate development near a government installation, sly stuff with government surpluses and advance knowledge of government commerce abroad—keepin' money.

Background for Bribery

When we consider that prices are up 70 per cent over 10 years ago, with the dollar cut to half its value, it is not difficult to see where the public servant can slip easily into a bribable position. The ten or twelve thousand salary dollars that used to spell affluence is not enough to keep a Washington big shot in fancy cocktail clothes and ample booze. He cannot live up to his neighbors on that sort of salary. Nor can you expect to hold the minor official entirely honest on the three, four, even five-thousand dollar pay check, which is supposed to maintain a high standard of living as a white-collar man.

The big seekers after keepin' money will pervert the little man. The little seeker after keepin' money will allow himself to be perverted. Every man looks for the loophole, because honest or dishonest, he searches for a security that has been forcibly denied him by his own government. Government, in the six years of post-war, has literally succeeded in making thieves of a great many honest men.

This is why I think it will be impossible to clean the stables in Washington. The fault reaches too deeply into an administration that has allowed a dizzying inflation that was never present during World War II, and which has succeeded in taxing the high, middle and low beyond the possibility of thrift today or saving for tomorrow. It is a thought for the incumbents as we head into the big election year—the thought that, no matter how much money you make, or how little money you make, everybody is busted flat except the crooks and their pawns.

No Warrant Issued In Tavern Licensee Party Fund Racket

DETROIT — (AP) — The State Liquor Control commissioner's offer of an investigator's signature to a complaint against George Hollman got a cold shoulder from Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien.

With the retort "this isn't Russia, too," O'Brien refused to recommend a warrant "unless there is evidence."

Hollman is the Dearborn Democratic party worker who was accused months ago of soliciting campaign contributions from liquor license applicants in return for his "influence."

Neil Staebler, Democratic state chairman, made the charge. It has been tossed about since without any formal action. Hollman has denied the charge.

Yesterday the liquor commission, Democratic-controlled, said that Al Gross, an investigator, would sign a complaint against Hollman.

Motorists Escape As Car Stalls On Tracks

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill.—(AP)—With the emphasis on the millionth traffic fatality, these two didn't quite make the list.

Mrs. Irene Prior, driver of a brand-new automobile, and her companion, Mrs. C. V. Nichols, were stalled on the Chicago, North Western Railroad tracks.

As the speeding "400" approached, a motorist, J. Dwight Evans, and a gateman, John J. Janusik, tried to push the car off the tracks. They couldn't move the car. The tires were wedged in an icy rut.

With the train a short distance away, both men pulled the women from the car to safety. The impact of the crash threw the car 300 feet against the depot platform.

W... ... CONGRESS DO? — Congress is expected to move cautiously, if at all, through the legislative woods after reconvening this month. President Truman will probably get little that he seeks, except continued high military spending. Foreign aid is expected to find tough sledding, as will the President's expected request for higher taxes and his whole "Fair Deal" program. The Newschart above lists some of the major items before Congress. As in 1951, the legislative body is likely to continue to be most noteworthy for its investigations.

Council Stamps Its Approval On Karas Memorial Project

REALIZATION of a Karas Memorial community shell came a step nearer reality Thursday night when the Escanaba city council accepted $5,416 raised in popular subscription and directed the hiring of an architect to draw plans and specifications.

This action can be interpreted to mean that the council is in full accord with the committee that started the movement and raised the funds thus far accumulated. The committee has indicated that it does not regard its own job as finished, that it will continue to seek funds in various ways to attain the objective. Undoubtedly the council will be willing to subscribe additional funds when necessary to realize the dream of those who have worked so hard on this project.

Special credit for the achievements to date on the Karas Memorial project, of course, has been earned by the committee which conceived the idea and launched the subscription campaign. Roy Pearson, as chairman of that committee, has done a particularly noteworthy job, devoted literally hundreds of hours in the cause.

Robert Meyer, the band director, has done an excellent job in pointing up the problem for the city. His study of community shells helps to eliminate errors that may otherwise develop. As a result of his own work, the kind of community shell most desired for Escanaba becomes apparent.

Mr. Meyer emphasizes that a community shell should not be designated as a bandshell because its potential uses are much greater than simply for band concerts. Undoubtedly it would be utilized primarily as a bandshell but it also could be used for vocal concerts, stage plays, outdoor speaking programs, even for showing film recordings of symphonies, etc.

The community shell when it is ultimately achieved will, of course, cost considerably more than $5,400. Mr. Meyer estimates the shell that he has in mind would cost $13,000 in addition to the cost of seating for concert audiences. The Karas Memorial committee proposes to continue its efforts to secure funds, believing that many persons will contribute more generously if they know realization of the dream is closer at hand.

The Karas Memorial project is in every sense a living memorial. Dedicated to a man who made music sing in the hearts of literally thousands of Escanabans, it will stand as a lasting and useful tribute.

The community shell will not be quickly attained. At the moment, no one can say exactly when the shell will be constructed. Projects of this nature are temporarily prohibited because of the urgent need for vital materials for defense purposes. However, it is not unrealistic to assume that actual construction may be possible in 1953. In the meantime, plans and specifications will be drawn, a site selected and everything made ready to go ahead as soon as conditions warrant.

Government Enters Steel Picture

LABOR and management have much to lose every time the government steps into the picture, as it has now in the steel case.

There is no ban on strikes in vital industries and Congress has shown itself averse to flatly forbidding such union actions. Even though the Taft-Hartley Act the president is only empowered to get a court injunction forbidding a strike for 80 days.

During that period both sides are given more time for a settlement. When the injunction ends a union is free to strike. And a rail union can strike when all of the Railway Labor Act machinery is exhausted.

Congress has been guided in stopping short of prohibiting strikes by the basic American principle of as much freedom as possible for everyone. This includes unions and employers, too.

Actually, Congress is encouraging labor and management to reach agreements through free, collective bargaining.

But collective bargaining becomes less free when the government steps into the dispute, as it has in the present steel dispute.

President Truman could have used the Taft-Hartley Act's 80-day delay.

Rather he asked both sides to let the government's Wage Stabilization board examine the dispute and make recommendations on a fair settlement. When both sides agreed the union put off the strike.

Here is another and the latest example of where the government couldn't afford to let free, collective bargaining go all the way in a strike in a vital industry.

Th egovernment's concern over stopping strikes in vital industries makes free, collective bargaining just another freedom to be ignored in a time of crisis. Congress did not empower the government to end bargaining—it provided for bargaining.

Next step will be inevitable. Compulsory arbitration is around the corner whether unionists and employers like it or not. It will mark the death of another freedom—free collective bargaining.

Litvinoff Was A Red Who Favored Peace

MAXIM MAXIMOVICH LITVINOFF is dead—an event worthy of note because it removes from the Kremlin the last known friend of the Western democracies. The former Soviet ambassador to the United States died in Moscow at the age of 75, the announcement of his death unaccountably delayed for two days.

Labeled by the Communists an "old Bolshevik and outstanding Soviet diplomat," Litvinoff received less kindly treatment by the Russian Communists during his lifetime.

Born in Russian Poland, Litvinoff as a youth joined the Russian Social Democratic party. He became a Bolshevik, and was the first Soviet ambassador to Great Britain. Later he became Soviet commissar of foreign affairs.

He won fame at world councils in the 1920's and 1930's and in a League of Nations speech argued that "peace is indivisible" and called for sanctions against Mussolini's attack on Ethiopia. Here was a voice that all peace-loving people could understand.

In 1933 his negotiations with President Roosevelt led to recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States. The next year Litvinoff took the Soviet Union into the League of Nations. He said these steps might guarantee peace.

Suddenly and surprisingly in 1939 Litvinoff was dismissed from his post as foreign minister by the Kremlin and Molotov took over. Litvinoff at the time was negotiating a mutual security pact with Britain and France.

The answer was revealed a few months later with the signing of a pact between the Soviet Union and Germany. The Kremlin did not want to ally itself with the Western democracies until it was clear that Hitler was to be defeated.

Masters of the Kremlin put Litvinoff back in favor in 1941 with the turning tide of alliance against the Nazis and Fascists. Again he was ambassador to the United States, only to be peremptorily recalled two years later.

The story of Litvinoff, diplomatic pawn in the service of Russia, is a disheartening chapter in the drab history of Communist aggression. The voice that once called for a world alliance to promote peace and punish aggressors is now stilled in death.

The Doctor Says . . .

Dispel Your Child's Fears Of Approaching Adolescence

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — — — Written for NEA Service

The appearance of the physical changes of adolescence may come as quite a shock to a young girl unless they are explained in advance.

Every girl approaching this age should be properly instructed, preferably by her mother, and made to realize that about one and one-half million other girls in the country are going through the same thing at the same time.

The changes of adolescence should be accepted as a step towards maturity by the girls and their parents. Before they take place, however, girls should know what to expect and should have an understanding of what the changes mean. When they do not understand, an unexpected event may cause some emotional distress. The information supplied should be given in a completely matter of fact way.

It should be explained that the changes about to develop are the result of increased activity on the part of those hormones or internal glands which have to do with femininity. This increased glandular activity does not take place at once and it takes several years before their full function is completed in the fully grown and developed woman.

The physical changes of adolescence in girls do not always come at the same age nor are they completed at the same rate of speed. There is usually no cause for alarm if there is delay until fourteen or fifteen, or if these changes start before thirteen.

The age when adolescence begins varies with different families and with racial background, climate, and perhaps other influences.

EMOTIONS ARE UPSET

After adolescence begins, and usually for two or three years later, girls are normally somewhat more nervous and less consistent in their behavior than they were before, or will be later.

They often cry easily, become uncooperative in their actions with others and may fly off the handle at members of their family for no apparent reason.

The youngsters themselves ought to understood this and to control themselves as much as possible. It is not fair to others to behave unreasonably no matter what the excuse.

Parents should also understand that these things do happen and they should not worry about the seeming personality changes which often occur.

When unreasonable behavior on the part of adolescent girls does break out, parents are well advised to ignore the outburst altogether, take it calmly and yet continue to be firm about those things which really matter.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The last time Winston Churchill met in an official conference with Harry Truman, he was on the ebbtide of a great and glorious career as war prime minister; Truman had just taken over the complex burdens of Franklin Roosevelt.

That was at Potsdam. The other figure at Potsdam was Stalin, and Churchill has never forgotten how Truman—new, nervous, peppery—began that session.

He began it by bawling out Stalin for being late. The train through Poland was one day late arriving, and Truman, without directly referring to this, delivered a 20-minute lecture to the Russian dictator that sessions would begin on time, would be conducted with regularity, with a definite agenda, and so on.

During the lecture, Churchill and Jimmie Byrnes, then secretary of state, exchanged glances. They wished they could find some way to soft-pedal the new president. But they couldn't tug at the Truman coat-tails. And after it was all over and Secretary Byrnes was about to give Truman a friendly suggestion that the time to bawl out Stalin was when the conference was deadlocked, not when it started, General Vaughan piped up to tell Truman how wonderful the bawling out had been.

A few days later, Winston Churchill went down to overwhelming defeat in the British elections, packed up and departed from Potsdam, leaving Harry Truman to pilot Anglo-American relations over the uncharted seas of the stormy postwar world.

EBB-TIDE OF EMPIRE

Truman and Churchill met again at Fulton, Mo., in 1946, but Churchill was only an ordinary citizen then and there were no problems to discuss.

Today Churchill comes back at the ebbtide of his life, at the ebb-tide of the British empire. He will try to recover for the empire, and he will try to recover the policies dropped when he was defeated at Potsdam.

He will not find things quite the same as during his previous conference with Mr. Truman, however, nor on his previous visits to the White House. Mr. Truman is older, more experienced, but just as peppery, just as inclined to bawl people out. In fact, some of his advisers have feared he might bawl out Churchill himself for proposing another meeting of the Big Three—Stalin, Truman and Churchill.

If Mr. Truman bawled out Mr. Churchill regarding the unity of Europe, it might set a new milestone for world peace. For most of Europe will be watching the Churchill-Truman coference to see whether the United States followers Churchill's lead for the disunity of Europe or whether Churchill follows our lead for the unification of Europe.

So if Mr. Truman took Winston to task on this vital policy, he would get cheers, not only from most of the prime ministers but from the ordinary folks of Europe.

Truman is more likely, however, to deliver a lecture not on this major issue, but on the much less important matter of Churchill's idea of a Big-3 meeting. For he has repeatedly stated that it was up to Stalin to come to see him, not vice-versa. And Mr. Truman was a bit irked when the new prime minister would not listen to the advice of our American embassy in London to omit from a recent speech all reference to a Big Three meeting.

Another thing Churchill will find different is the atmosphere around the White House. During war days, the White House became a sort of second home to Winston. He and his personal staff occupied a suite of rooms in the White House and the PM used to thump down the corridor to the bedroom of the president in his slippers, a gold kimono flapping around his half-naked torso at all hours of the night, in order to push British policy across on the sometimes reluctant Roosevelt.

3 A. M. CONFERENCES

These midnight conferences became so routine that American admirals and generals worried about them. Churchill has the habit of not getting up until ten or eleven, then going to bed after lunch and sleeping most of the afternoon. Much of his most important business, therefore, is carried on between the end of dinner at 10 p. m. and bedtime at 3 a. m.

These late hours, American military claimed, wore Roosevelt out. Furthermore they suspected that the British prime minister chose them to discuss important decisions, because a weary FDR was more likely to compromise; second, because the military was not around during these nocturnal conferences to object to Churchillian decisions.

Be that as it may, Harry Truman is not going in for these late parleys.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Washington, D. C.—On Luzon American and Filipino troops under Gen. Douglas MacArthur outfought and outmaneuvered their Japanese foe to get their first taste of victory when their shortened defense lines northwest of fallen Manila withstood the first shock of frontal attack and took a heavy toll of the enemy.

Berlin — It was reported that Adolf Hitler had been at the eastern front for the past five months "devoting his life to the gigantic tasks which confront the Germans" in that sector.

Escanaba — Escanabans were invited to visit the crew and accommodations of the C&NW "400" streamliner before its maiden run.

Gladstone—Mrs. James T. Jones entertained the Coterie at a luncheon in the Memorial Methodist church.

20 YEARS AGO

Washington, D. C.—Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee announced that 93 per cent of the contributors to the 1928 Democratic campaign who answered a questionnaire favored returning prohibition to a decision of the people and he warned Democrats to unite on prohibition or face a north-south split or a third party.

Escanaba—Records at the city health department office showed 480 births recorded at Escanaba for the year of 1931, an increase of nearly 100 over the previous year when a total of 386 births were on record.

AN EVER-ENCOMPASSING CIRCLE

Winnie's Mission: British Seeking More Say-So In Cold War Policies

By EDWARD HUGHES
Staff Correspondent of
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

LONDON—"Jolly well everything!"

That, according to a conference-weary Foreign Office official, is what Prime Minister Winston Churchill intends to talk about with President Truman when they open their series of meetings in Washington.

"There's still no neat little list of subjects we want to discuss in America," says a high treasury official who participated in these sessions. "The old man may surprise Truman by bringing up the question of future relations with the moon."

U. S. Is Kept Guessing

This vagueness is not all unintentional, implies an assistant secretary for foreign affairs. Presumably veteran-bargainer Churchill thinks he can get more and bigger concessions if the U. S. isn't able to get "set" against his proposals. For example, the American embassy here has had little luck in pinning the British down to a specific agenda for the guidance of the White House and State Department in preparing their own side of the conversations.

It is clear from what his aides say privately, however, that Britain's prime minister will raise these issues with Mr. Truman:

STRATEGY PLANNING. Mr. Churchill thinks Britain and the U. S. should set up a new supreme Anglo-American planning committee to map joint economic, political and military policies for the cold war. He may agree to an informal understanding on this, in place of writing it down on paper, but he'll press hard for some kind of agreement.

This joint consultation machinery would be over and above the "cumbersome" North Atlantic Treaty Organization set-up, giving Britain a bigger role in world affairs. It's no secret that Mr. Churchill is riled at the way Britain's voice has diminished in the past few years to a point where it is only slightly more influential in shaping Western policy than those of former occupied or defeated nations like France and Germany. He will likely argue that America's atomic-bomber bases in East Anglia, to the northeast of London, provide an obvious reason why Britain should have the greatest possible say in policy toward Russia—they put Britain in the forefront of Soviet attack if war breaks out. Mr. Churchill also wants a stronger British-U.S. partnership to bring about unity of policy in the Middle East and Asia as well as in Europe.

In addition, Mr. Churchill would revise the top structure of N.A.T.O., replacing the present Atlantic Council deputies group in London with a high-powered council of ministers of the N.A.T.O. nations. This council would be empowered to make decisions on the spot instead of referring them back to home governments as at present.

ATOMIC ENERGY. Britain wants something approaching a full exchange of information between the two nations on this subject. Mr. Churchill knows this requires the approval of Congress, but will emphasize that recent big developments in Britain's own atomic research would make the flow of information more than a one-way street. He is reported especially anxious to "coordinate" work on the development of atomic-powered submarines and aircraft.

AMERICAN AID. Associates hint the prime minister wants to avoid any direct discussion of further dollar assistance to Britain. The question of the $360 million in economic aid reportedly to be provided Britain in the first half of 1952 seems settled. So Mr. Churchill wants to put emphasis on "mutual" help from both sides. He will likely point again to the East Anglia air bases and ask why this service should not be repaid in the form of planes, tanks and other weapons—a revival of World War II's lend-lease type of aid.

He will also urge America to buy more of such things as British aircraft patents and the sterling's area's tin and rubber, stressing that in this way Britain's dollar problem can be eased without distasteful dole-type grants. He wants the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to end its "buyer's strike" against Malayan tin.

Mr. Churchill will also push such barter projects as the recent swap through which Britain got much-needed U. S. steel in return for some aluminum. A paper reportedly has been drawn up suggesting a "fairer" allocation of steel among the N.A.T.O. countries. Britain wants more from the U. S., and wants to work out some kind of tin and rubber barter for it.

EUROPEAN ARMY. Associates insist Mr. Churchill likes the idea of a six-nation unified military force on the Continent—but not with Britain as a participant. He and Mr. Truman may agree to put the utmost pressure on Belgium and The Netherlands to agree to terms for participating in the European army soon.

STANDARDIZED WEAPONS. The prime minister's intimates believe he will agree to scrap British plans for mass producing its new .280 calibre rifle in the face of America's intention to continue producing ammunition and developing weapons along .30 calibre lines, based on the Garand M-1 rifle. But if he does this, it will be as a bargaining swap for other concessions from Mr. Truman.

ATLANTIC COMMAND. Mr. Churchill has steadfastly opposed appointment of an American admiral as supreme commander in the Atlantic, even though U. S. forces are much larger there. He says there was no overall commander in the last war and none is needed now. But one military expert says he thinks the prime minister might now give in to America on this issue, too—if he can wangle something big in return.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will be present with a couple of his top foreign office aides. Lt. Gen. Kenneth McLean, chief staff officer at the Ministry of Defense, is traveling with what one of his cronies calls "tons of paper" to support Mr. Churchill's military discussions.

Then there will be Sir Leslie Rowan, the treasury's expert on overseas finance. Lord Cherwell and Lord Ismay, the former in charge of atomic energy research and the latter the boss of Commonwealth relations, are also in the party as "personal" advisers to Mr. Churchill. Another prominent member of the group is C A. E. Schuckburgh, foreign office expert on Western defense.

These officials are now helping Mr. Churchill polish up his plans in talks aboard the Queen Mary.

When Mr. Churchill docks Saturday, he is scheduled to fly straight to Washington from New York and open the talks with Mr. Truman. These discussions will last most of next week. Then he'll fly back to New York for a visit with his old friend, Bernard Baruch. From there he'll be off to Canada for talks with government leaders in Ottawa before returning to Washington to address Congress and wind up his discussions

God's Living Letters

By Kirby Page

A blind astronomer was describing for us the portion of the heavens which we were seeing through the big telescope. The glass was turned to the rings of Saturn and we listened to an explanation. Our guide through the starry firmament was Dr. Edwin Brant Frost, director of the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wisconsin.

From childhood he had poor vision. The loss of his right eye came about twenty years before his death. In another five years a cataract closed his left eye, leaving him with three per cent vision. And soon he was confined within the realm of physical darkness. Yet he continued at his post for more than a decade. Night after night with the assistance of a colleague and the help of a vivid memory, he examined remote points in celestial space.

Dr. Frost's extraordinary memory was the result of much practice. Being warned in advance of impending blindness, he concentrated on the development of this faculty. From dark to daylight, month after month, he had spent the hours in full exposure to the night. There was much to be seen. So vast is the great nebula of Andromeda that light takes 50,000 years to cross it, and so far away that its light requires a million years to reach us. The total number of stars in the entire universe has been estimated at 10,000 million-million-million!

In the words of Immanuel Kant, Dr. Frost could cry out: "We are living in a world which is but a little island of the known, washed on every shore by the vast waters of the unknown." He was filled with holy awe by immensity, distance, precision and beauty.

A deeply religious man by training and experience, he could testify, in Longfellow's words: "From the cool cisterns of the midnight air my spirit drank repose; the fountains of perpetual peace flows there—from those deep cisterns flows."

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE FARMERS' GRANGE—One of the most influential farm organizations in the United States is the Grange—but so modest we have never heard any of the Grange members say the history of their organization dates back to 1867.

Fact is that until recent years we have not known many Grangers. And then we met some farm folks from Stonington and our education concerning the Grange was rapidly enlarged.

For one thing we discovered the Grange has a program of action and service that makes it the strong organization in any community where it exists. At Stonington, across Little Bay de Noc from Escanaba, the Bay de Noquette Grange No. 1389 counts as its members practically all of the community leaders.

What the Grange represents is revealed in its achievements. These are partciularly noteworthy in the field of education and recreation for its members and in community-wide service.

* * *

FOR THE PEOPLE—A couple years ago we visited Stonington in connection with the Grange-sponsored project for the restoration and preservation of the old Peninsula Point lighthouse.

The Grange was having a meeting, followed by a dance at the old Grange hall, built 40 years ago, and now demolished to make room for a new community center—also sponsored by the Grange.

At the meeting and the dance that followed we were impressed by the mutually helpful spirit of the people. They joined in a work project on the old lighthouse, entered into a contract with the government for its maintenance for many years to come.

And at the dance the youngsters and the middle aged and the old folks all entered into the spirit of the fun. Recreation was a community affair.

* * *

WINNING THE PRIZE — That year (1949) the Bay de Noquette Grange won first place in Michigan and a cash award for its community service project.

The following year the Grange at Stonington embarked upon a bigger project—construction of a new community hall. The people of the township backed it with a bond issue to help in the financing. There was hope of first place state award or a national award.

Just the other day Peder Pedersen, Grange master at Stonington, stopped in to report that the community hall project had won third place in the state instead of the hoped-for first. So far nothing has been heard from in the national contest.

* * *

THEY CAN'T LOSE — No doubt the Grange and the people of Stonington are disappointed in not hitting the top project spot among Michigan Granges.

Art Lorenson, Charles Peterson, Semer, Thorsen, Art Sundstrom and others of the Grange building committee no doubt feel the Bay de Noquette Grange deserved better.

But prize or no prize, the Grange-sponsored project was a sure winner for the people of the community. They have worked together for something they wanted and needed. In that they cannot lose. And in the words of the building committee:

"This building when completed will offer service to the parents and children of today—and the children of today's children. It will be a lasting monument to the good community spirit that exists in Bay de Noc township."

* * *

STRENGTH OF UNITY — The Grange was pioneer in this community effort among rural and farm groups in the United States.

Farmers used the Grange to organize opposition to the unfair practices of railroads. The Grangers secured the passage of state laws to limit railroad rates. They also advocated income tax, election of U. S. senators by the people, laws against trusts and other measures which later became law.

Agriculture owes the Grange a debt in bringing reforms of great benefit to the farmer. Today the Grange has 8,000 local groups in 40 states and its membership is growing on the basis of its original program—education and social activities.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

SHORT WORDS SOMETIMES ARE BEST

Building up a vocabulary does not necessarily mean that it should be done just by adding words of four, five, or six syllables. Many times it is the short words, words perhaps of no more than four or five letters. that prove the most effective. And there are dozens of these highly useful short words which do not come into ordinary daily conversation.

Take, for instance, the words "cope." It has two widely differing meaning, for in fact we have two very different words in the language, each spelled "cope." But offhand can you tell what either of them means? A church-going reader may know one of the two as the name of the long silken mantle or cape worn by priests or clergymen in certain ceremonial processions. This word is Old English, and, in fact, was at one time identical with "cape," used with the same meaning. Too, because the ancient capes or copes had a hood attached to them, our present word "cap" was originally the name of such a hood.

Because this churchly cope, if laid out flat, has the shape of half a circle, this same word has long been poetically applied to the cloak that covers all the world—the sky or the heavens. Poets write of "the dark cope of night," or "the arch of heaven's wide cope."

Our second "cope" came from Old French "couper," to strike. (The word "coup" (koo), a master-stroke, much used by Boy Scouts, is from the same source.) In the Middle Ages, brave knights "coped" with one another when they engaged in tournaments or battles, but now we find ourselves able to "cope" with evil, or for that matter to "cope" with little Frankie when he's on the rampage, when we mean that we can put up a successful fight against evil, or prove ourselves a match for little Frankie.

About the only things that will leave women speechless are pretty things.

Reporting Income Easy If You Had Taxes Withheld

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of 13 authoritative, easy-to-follow articles in NEA'S 11th annual Income Tax Primer — expert advice for the average taxpayer on handling every item of his return with the least effort, greatest accuracy — and minimum payment. The author Richard A. Mullens, is a ranking Washington tax authority and a graduate of the same training course given Federal agents who scan your own return.

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Special Correspondent

Do you work for someone else? Do you get a paycheck?

If you do, this is one of the most important articles of the Primer as far as you are concerned.

Here you learn how to report income from your employer. And what is just as important as far as saving you money on your taxes, this article tells you what expenses you can deduct on page 1 of your tax return, Form 1040.

But if you don't have what will be called here, for purposes of simplicity, page 1 expenses, don't worry. Other expense deductions will be explained in clear and complete detail in later articles.

Reporting income is simple for those who had taxes withheld. Each employer is required to furnish you by Jan. 31 a Withholding Statement (Form W-2) which shows total wages before payroll deductions. Write this amount in item 2 on page 1 of your tax return.

If tax was not withheld you will have to figure income from records, or ask your employer. Report such income items on separate lines opposite each employer's name in item 2. This includes tips received direct from customers and wages as a domestic servant, farm hand, or casual laborer.

Some employers pay wages in property other than cash. In such cases, figure the fair market value of the property at the time you received it and report that amount as income. You get the fair market value of hundreds of items out of newspaper advertisements, classified ads, and stock exchange reports. If you receive property that isn't listed, get help from your collector or a tax advisor.

Now, let's take a look at some income items listed on page 5 of the official instructions which do not have to be reported. Here are explanations of the items most likely to give you trouble:

Gifts from employer to employe. To be a true gift, the employer must intend to make a gift and should not take a deduction for it on his business tax return.

Do not report the value of quarters provided by the employer when it is necessary for you to live in to do your job properly. Quarters provided principally for worker's benefit, or as part of his wage, are taxable at fair rental value.

Do not report value of meals provided when you work overtime, without extra pay, or if meals are provided to have you on call during meal time. The fair value of other meals provided by the employer is taxable as part of your wages.

Small services, privileges, and facilities furnished employes for the promotion of good will, health, morale and efficiency are not considered income to the employe. This includes such items as medical services, courtesy discounts on purchases, group life insurance, railroad passes and occasional use of official car for personal reasons.

After showing all your income as an employe in item 2, page one of your return, you are now ready to consider whether you have any deductions which can be shown in item 2.

The law allows many deductions but only two types can be deducted in item 2 on Form 1040. These are travel expenses and business expenses reimbursed by your employer. The other deductions can only be shown on page 3 of Long Form 1040 and will be discussed in the 10th article.

Read the information on page 5 of the official instructions shown under "Travel Expenses of Employes" and "Reimbursed Expenses Other Than Travel." If you have any expenses which fit either category, do not file on Form 1040A. These expenses cannot be deducted on that form. They can be deducted on either Short Form 1040 or Long Form 1040.

Note that the Bureau instructions say travel expenses must be incurred while traveling at least overnight. The Tax Court, however, permitted one taxpayer to deduct as "Travel Expenses" the cost of a trip out of town and back in one day. The Bureau has not yet decided to follow this Tax Court decision so if you try to deduct in item 2 on page 1 of Form 1040 for trips out of town but not overnight, you may have to go to the Tax Court to win this point.

A deduction for travel expenses must be supported by a statement attached to your return. There is no set form for the statement. A sample statement is reprinted with this article to show you how it can be done, and incidentally, to remind you of what items can be deducted.

Watch for tomorrow's article if you have any dividends, interest or business income.

DEDUCTING TRAVEL EXPENSES

If you deduct travel expenses in item 2, page 1 of Form 1040, attach a statement (preferably typewritten) like this sample, to your return:

I made 50 overnight trips away from home during 1951. My expenses on these trips were as follows:

Railroad, airplane and taxi-fares	$ 276.50
Meals, lodging and hotel expenses	335.00
Telephone and telegraph charges	17.85
Tips, public steno, baggage charges	65.00
Auto expenses on these trips including depreciation, registration, gasoline, oil, repairs, insurance and parking charges	400.00
Total	$1094.35

Tax Primer Q. & A.

Q. I was an enlisted man in Korea for two months of 1951. The Army sent me a Form W-2 for 1951 showing taxable income of $1050. Do I subtract two months pay from that and report the rest?

A. No, you should report the full amount. The Army is supposed to subtract combat pay before sending out the Form W-2.

Q. On a recent business trip I received a per diem allowance of $7 from my employer, but my business expenses were $8 a day. How should I deduct the $8?

A. You must include the $7 per day as income in Item 2, page 1, of Form 1040, but you can also show in the same place a deduction of $7 per day for reimbursed expenses. The remaining expense of $1 can only be deducted on page 3 of Form 1040 under conditions described in Article 10.

Q. I live in Newark and commute each day to my job in New York. Can I deduct my travel expense?

A. No. Travel from home to work is not deductible, even if you live in another city.

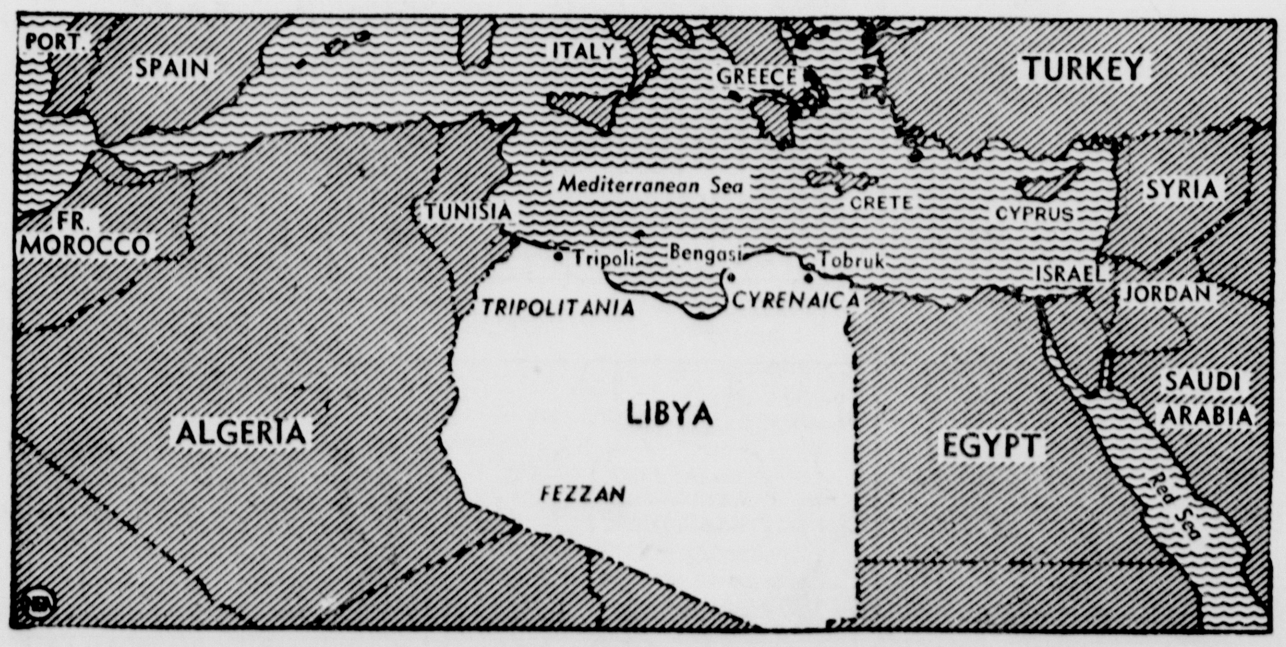
Independence Comes To The Shores Of Tripoli---

The new year will be an historic one for the 2,150,000 people of Libya, one-time keystone of Italy's empire in Africa. By action of the United Nations, the vast territory gains its independence after 40 years of colonial rule. The U. S. is preparing to sign an agreement with the new Libyan government granting this country long-term permission to maintain its strategically important Wheelus Air Base near Tripoli. In addition, Uncle Sam is expected to give the new Arab nation a "birthday" present of at least $1,000,000 in cash, plus other assistance under the Point Four program of aid to undeveloped areas. Britain and France will also be allowed to keep troops in Libya. Below are illustrated highlights in Libya's modern history.

Won from Turkey in the war of 1911, Libya did not truly become Italy's "fourth shore" until Mussolini rose to power and sent ruthless Air Marshall Italo Balbo to govern the colony. Under Balbo's iron-fisted rule, military bases were established, communications improved and 20,000 Italian peasants settled in northern Libya.

During World War II. Britain's cocky Lt.-Gen. Montgomery and Germany's Gen. Rommel battled back and fourth across Libya's blazing sands. Their bitter struggle for control of the North African coast on Libya the nickname. The World's Longest Battlefield. By 1943, Monty had routed Rommel and Germany's Afrika Corps.



Libya, three times the size of Texas, consists of three territories separated by wide deserts. At the end of the war, two of them, Tripolitania, boasting 800,000 of Libya's 2,150,000 population, and Cyrenaica, fell to England. France assumed responsibility for administration of the Fezzan.

Lacking farm land and mineral resources, Libya's importance to both countries is strategic. With such ports as Tobruk, Tripoli, Bengasi, and modern air bases, Libya is a key link in the West's defense chain.

Hopeful and sixtyish Idress el Senussi, leader of 250,000 Senussi Arabs, will be Libya's king. He aided the British during war, has many foes, no male heirs.

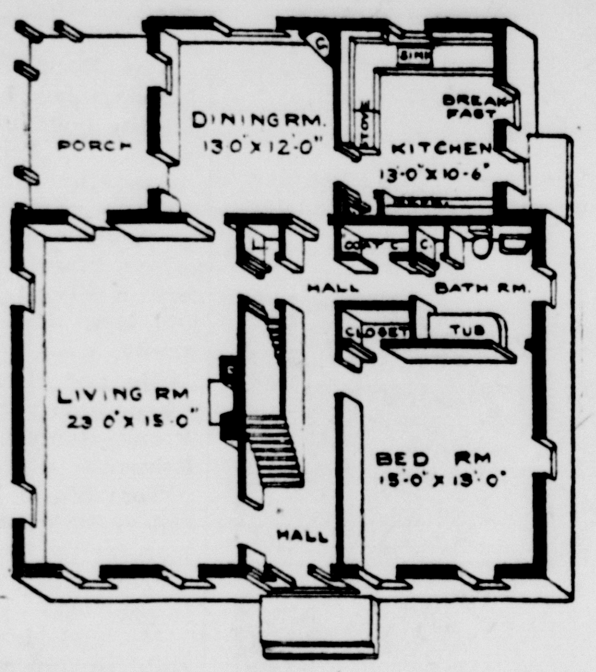
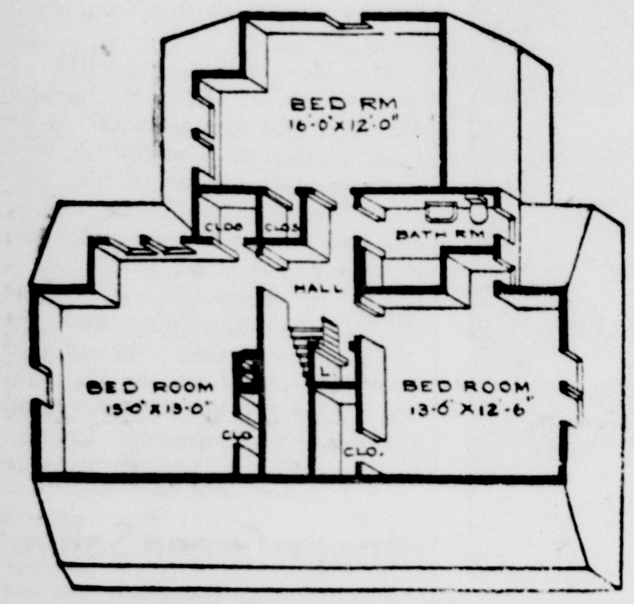
For Better Homes BUILD—REPAIR—REMODEL For Better Living





The Lockport

A Roomy, Cape Cod Style Cottage

Rooms	Seven
Bedrooms	Four
Closets	Seven
Cubage	25,000'
Dimensions	37' x 38'

To the left off the hall, the living room is 23' x 15' in dimensions. Most attractive features of the room are the two windows in the front wall, the two in the left wall, and the large fireplace in the right wall. To obtain still further light you could put a French door on the doorway leading from the living room to the back porch.

This porch can be just roofed over and left open, or glassed or screened in, as you prefer. If you do glass or screen it in, the porch can do double duty during the warm weather as an extra eating or sleeping room. Another door in the back living room wall leads to the 13' x 12' dining room.

The window, in the left wall, looks out on the porch; the larger window in the back wall looks out on the yard. A built-in cabinet located in the right back corner of the room makes an excellent storage spot for your china and glassware. And since the door in the right wall leads directly to the kitchen, serving formal meals in this dining room presents no problem whatsoever.

Every inch of space in the kitchen is put to good use; yet this room is not cluttered or overcrowded. Working counters line the left and back walls, with the stove at the left end of the array and the sink centered under the window in the back wall.

By the large window in the right wall of the 13' x 10' 6" kitchen is the area set apart as the breakfast nook. This well-lighted, pleasant area can also be used for other family meals or between-meal snacks if you so desire.

Large enough to easily hold a tub and a shower, the all modern bathroom can be reached from the central hallway and also from the front bedroom. One window provides ample light and ventilation for this room which also contains a good sized closet.

Coat Closet

There is an extra large coat closet opening on the central hallway just before the door to the bathroom can be reached from the central hallway and also from the front bedroom. One window provides ample light and ventilation for this room which also contains a good sized closet.

Coat Closet

There is an extra large coat closet opening on the central hallway just before the door to the bathroom.

The first floor bedroom receives excellent light and ventilation through two windows in the front wall and one in the right wall. This 15' x 13' bedroom has a spacious closet in its back wall—a closet which could easily hold the clothing of two people if this room is used as the master bedroom.

Another central hallway connects the three bedrooms and the bath on the second floor of "The Lockport". Measuring 13' 6" x 12' 6", the right front bedroom has double windows in the right wall; boasts two large closets, one in the back wall and another in the left wall. Another window provides extra light and ventilation for the closet in the back wall.

Opening on the hall, just before the door to this bedroom, is the good sized linen closet. In this closet you can keep all the linen for the second floor bedrooms and towels, etc., for the bath.

One window in the left wall and two in the back guarantee cross ventilation and good light for the 15' x 13' bedroom. This room, too, boasts two large closets, one in the back wall and another in the left wall. The large closet in the back wall can be lined with cedar and will then make an ideal storage place for your family's precious woolens, blankets etc.

Two windows in the left wall and one in the back provide an abundance of light and ventilation for the back bedroom. This bedroom, which measures 16' x 12', has one closet in the front wall.

Trans-World Message Marks Anniversary

NEW YORK —(AP)— The chairman of the Radio Corporation of America, David Sarnoff, recently saluted the 50th anniversary of the first radio signal sent across the Atlantic by sending the letter "S" around the world at a gathering of radio executives in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

He pressed a series of three "dits" on a telegraph key. The signals were heard over a loudspeaker by the luncheon gathering less than one-eighth of a second later—after they had traveled around the world.

Sarnoff also exchanged greetings by radio-telephone with Marchesa Maria Cristina Marconi, widow of the wireless inventor, and her daughter.

Pauline Waeghe, Michael McMartin Married Today

Poinsettias banked the altars of All Saints ' Catholic church in Gladstone for the wedding this morning of Miss Pauline Waeghe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Waeghe of 412 Minneapolis Ave., Gladstone, and Michael J. McMartin of Escanaba. Mr. and Mrs. Richard McMartin, 420 Ellison St., Horicon, Wis., are the bridegroom's parents.

The 9 o'clock service was solemnized by Father Matt LaViolette who was celebrant of the nuptial high mass. All Saints' choir sang the music of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a mandarin collar, allover lace bodice and full skirt ending in a cathedral train. Wide Chantilly lace cascaded from the waistline to form the edging of the train. Her fingertip length veil of illusion was caught to a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white orchid with satin ribbon streamers.

Bridal Attendants

Miss Dorothy Waeghe of St. Paul, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Lois LaFond of Gladstone was bridesmaid. Their gowns of blue and shrimp satin, respectively, were made with sheer drop shoulder yokes, edged with Chantilly lace, and full skirts. They wore braided satin headpieces and matching mitts and carried adornment bouquets of contrasting shrimp and blue carnations. Patricia Ann Schmitt of Gladstone, another cousin of the bride, in the role of flower girl, was dressed in a white satin floor length frock with a drop shoulder edged with Chantilly lace and a full bustle back skirt. She wore a headpiece and mitts similar to the bridal aides' and she carried a basket of flowers which she scattered in the path of the bride. Patrick McMartin of Horicon, the bridegroom's young brother, carried the rings on a white satin pillow with satin streamers.

Richard McMartin was best man for his brother and Joseph Waeghe was groomsman. Ushering the guests to their places were Lloyd Grabowski and Oliver Derouin.

Mrs. Waeghe witnessed her daughter's wedding in a dusty rose dress with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. McMartin wore a navy blue dress with a like corsage.

Reception This Evening

The wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home with the centerpiece, a miniature bride in a setting of flowers and tapers. Eighteen covers were set for the dinner at the Log Cabin with appointments, a wedding cake and white tapers in crystal holders. The reception for 300 guests is being held this evening from 5 to 7 at the Legion hall. Centering the bridal table will be a three-tiered wedding cake and complementary appointments are in yellow and green.

The young newlyweds will live at 428 South 9th street in Escanaba when they return from their honeymoon. The bride who is a Gladstone high school graduate has been employed as deputy county clerk at the court house in Escanaba. Her husband, a graduate of St. Joseph's high school, is a crane operator with the Harnischfeger Truck and Crane plant.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Richard McMartin and son, Pat, of Horicon; Mrs. Gunnard Bjork of Munising, and Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Olson and daughter Rita, of Kenosha.

Coming Events Will Cast Same Old Female Shadows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The time has come to start ruining checks by writing "51" instead of "52" on the date lines. It is also, for some reason or other, a time of prophecy and forecast.

Let the experts and the big brains concern themselves with important forecasts on subjects such as war, international agreement or lack of sace, of politicking. I propose to confine my looking ahead primarily to trivia.

For instance, I predict that the current vogue for short-clipped hair on women, usually referred to as a "poodle cut," will be superceded by a rage for long hair and psyche knots. I also predict that the nation's hairdressers —for whom the crew-cut was the answer to the inroads of the home permanent—won't like this a bit.

There will emerge at least 75 new diets, all of which will be published under a title resembling, "Eat—and Get Thin," and they will be tried out for short periods by some 50 million women. Roughly 49 million will temporarily lose two pounds each before abandoning the diet.

Cartoonists will continue to draw jokes about women's hats and mud-packs. Radio and television comedians will continue to make the same old quips about mothers-in-law.

In spite of the new government rules, women will find some way of identifying budget fur coats by some word other than "rabbit." There will be a large number of invidious remarks made about mink coats, but the average dame will prefer to take the abuse and a mink coat than to wrap herself in sable-dyed squirrel.

This Will Change

Child-care experts will continue to change their collective mind about rearing children. The endless debate about the evils of comic books and television will rage on. Children will continue to buy endless quantities of the former and will keep their little noses plastered against the screens of the latter.

Every women's magazine will carry at least one article exhorting the "older woman" to find herself and a new interest in life with "outside interests." The federal government will issue countless tracts explaining how the older woman is the nation's greatest untapped reservoir of labor and will be needed badly by industry.

A large number of new scientific inventions, among them some miracle drugs, will be written and talked about in glowing terms, but none will be available to the general public. Someone will come up with a new theory about the common cold. There will also be a highly touted new remedy for curing same. Most of us will still suffer through the same old course of sneezes, sniffles and coughs. Psychiatry will continue to get the same old sweet-sour treatment.

Important Jobs

A few more women will get themselves elected and appointed to important jobs in industry, business and government and each will be held up as an example of the forward strides of womankind.

There will be the usual amount of talk about equality of the sexes, and most women will be bored by it. Women who receive paychecks will continue to loathe being referred to as "career women," and the search for a synomym for "housewife" will go on unabated.

The marriage rate and the birth rate will go up: everyone will continue to hate war and wish for peace. And the rumbling heard in every home in the land will be grousing about income taxes.

MY husband says I'm an old sew and sew! That's because he can't tear me away from my new Necchi Sewing Machine. He doesn't really care, though — it's such a pleasure to find the buttons on his shirts and every little rip or tear mended in a jiffy! If you'll stop in at Maytag Sales, 1019 Ludington, you'll see this amazing machine that can sew on buttons, darn, make buttonholes, monogram, embroider and hemstitch all without special attachments! It's all done with a flick of a lever in a flicker of an eyelash. Necchi machines come in smart portable or console models. Better make a visit to Maytag Sales if you like things just sew around your house!

IT'S a great life if you don't week end! But it's an hilarious life if you "Week End With Father" at the Michigan Theater. This uproarious comedy starring Van Heflin, Patricia Neal and little Gigi Perreau begins Sunday. It's the story of a young widow with two sons and a widower with two daughters—they try for a little romance with better interference than any halfback ever offered! You'll love Van when he enters into the father-and-son races; he plays the business end of a human wheelbarrow and rolls an egg with his nose! "Week End With Father" will leave you weak with laughter!

The spiralled Renaissance candles also give a new twist in table decoration. For a bright party, see the right party —Eden's!

I LIKED the cartoon of the bank teller announcing to an astonished man, "I'm sorry, Mr. Smith, but your wife beat you to the draw!" We lucky females in Delta County are going to get the draw on our men in financial matters more than once after we complete the wonderful Women's Finance Institute—a series of four lectures sponsored by the State Bank of Escanaba. For four Wednesday's beginning Jan. 30th, there will be outstanding speakers to help get us out of the fog on matters like personal financial planning, life insurance, wills etc. Meetings at the Knights of Columbus Hall. KEEP your shirt on! I know it's a temptation when you hear about the low laundry rates for shirts at the Escanaba Steam Laundry—you want to take it off and rush right down with it. Annual Polio Drive Opens

The annual March of Dimes campaign opened in Schoolcraft county this week under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Cockram, who is serving her third year as fund chairman.

Containers for coins are now being placed in various business places and coin cards are being mailed to individuals.

In stressing the need for generous contributions to the fund, Mrs. Cockram said:

"During the last four years the nation has experienced its worst polio years in history. Many people are not aware of this great increase because polio cases have been widely distributed rather than concentrated in specific areas. But 1951 marked the fourth consecutive year in which the March of Dimes has had to go into debt to pay for the care of polio patients needing help.

"The tremendous obligations facing the National Foundation". Mrs. Cockram said, "have forced us to double the March of Dimes campaign period. It will extend through the entire month of January as we endeavor to raise enough money to wipe out the 1951 debt and avoid incurring another in 1952."

Volunteers from five Manistique organizations who are helping with the campaign were announced several weeks ago by Mrs. Cockram. Township chairmen for the drive were announced yesterday as follows:

Manistique, Mrs. Elwyn Anderson; Inwood, Ray Ranguette; Hiawatha, Mrs. Phyllis McRae; Thompson, Mrs. Harry Hastings; Seney, Mrs. Fred Boonenberg; Doyle, Mrs. Ed Johnson, Germfask, Mrs. Clarence Nelson; Mueller, Mrs. Adelor LaCroix; Steuben aret of Inwood, Mrs. John Grimsley.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ivar Hellman, who passed away one year ago, January 6, 1951.

MOTHER HAS FALLEN ASLEEP

Mother was tired and weary,
Weary with toil and with pain;
Put by her glasses and rocker,
She will not need them again.
Into Heaven's mansions she's entered,
Never to sigh or to weep,
After long years with life's struggles,
Mother has fallen asleep.

Rest the tired feet now forever,
Dear wrinkled hands are so still,
Blast of the earth shall no longer
Throw o'er our loved one a chill.
Angels through Heaven will guide her,
Jesus will still bless and keep,
Not for the world would we wake her,
Mother has fallen asleep.

Beautiful rest for the weary,
Well deserved rest for the true,
When our life's journey is ended
We shall again be with you.
This helps to quiet our weeping,
Hark! Angel music so sweet!
He giveth to His beloved
Beautiful, beautiful sleep.

Sadly missed by

Mrs. Arthur Glenwood and Family,
Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stoneclift and Family.

SOMEONE YOU KNOW IS IN THE WRONG JOB

He is easily above-the-average man who is making only an average salary. He has personality and ability of talking to people. Selling comes naturally to him. He is conscientious, hard-working and anxious to get ahead. He is a man between the ages of 25 and 45 who thinks he has wonderful possibilities and dreams of the day he will be earning more than just a comfortable income. With all these qualities, you feel that all he needs is the opportunity. If you knew just where he could earn from $3000 to $5000 a year, you'd be the first to tell him about it. You might want to clip this ad and turn it over to him. We'd like very much to talk to such a man. We need him.

Vejar Decisions West Coast Vet

NEW YORK—(AP)—Chico Vejar, the communting boxing collegian from Stamford, Conn. is ready to move up in class after passing his mid-term exam with Professor Enrique Rolanos—but not too far up.

Lightweight Champ Jimmy Carter, Paddy De Marco and Art Aragon are to be mentioned as possible February foes for Chico today in a conference with Al Weill, IBC matchmaker. Aragon looks like the best bet. Both Carter and De Marco will insist on Vejar making weight.

Vejar last night won a unanimous 10-round decision at Madison Square Garden over the veteran Bolanos.

Still Learning

The 20-year-old Chico was asked about Kid Gavilan, the welter champ. When would he be ready to mix in that class?

"I'm still learning," he said. "Maybe another year. Maybe two years. Whenever my manager says."

Bolanos, a 13 to 5 underdog, taught Chico some fancy tricks in the late rounds. Jab, jab, jab and then a smart flurry to bewilder the persistent Chico. Anxious for a knockout, Chico wasted energy with wild rights winging over Bolanos' bobbing head.

Still Chico won decisively. Referee Ruby Goldstein and Judge Art Aidala had it 7-3-1 and Judge Frank Forbes 6-4. The AP card also was 7-2-1.

The crowd of 4,262 paid $14,-290.

Record Field To Enter Largest Sailing Meet

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP)—A record field of 115 skippers will participate in the Miami Sunshine regatta — Florida's largest sailing meet—which gets under way at 2 p. m. (EST) today off Dinner Key.

Most coveted title of the 16 races at stake is the national Thistle Winter championship, held by James Schoonmaker of Miami Beach.

Schoonmaker will face many strong challengers, including H. L. Boston of Mt. Clemens, Mich., holder of the Detroit area title

Fourth Detroit Tiger Signs 1952 Contract

DETROIT — (AP)—Four Detroit Tigers now have signed 1952 contracts.

Hal White, veteran relief pitcher, was the fourth to come to terms with the American league club for which he won three and lost four games last season.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

New York—Chico Vejar, 146½, Stamford, Conn., outpointed Enrique Bolanos, 143, Pasadena, Calif., 10.

Hollywood, Calif.—Lauro Salas, 129, Monterrey, Mexico, and Bobby Why, 127¼, Santa Barbara, Calif., drew, 10.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Alex Fimbreis, 123, Phoenix, knocked out Chili Cantero, 127, Havana, 4.

Decide Sunday On Entry In Baseball League In Michigan

COLUMBUS, O. — (AP)—Whether any of four Michigan cities will remain in organized baseball in 1952 probably will be decided here Sunday.

The cities are Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw and Muskegon They are all members of the class A Central league last season.

Saginaw's owners, their club in bankruptcy, have announced they have no plans to field a team in any league this year, and owner Leo Vanderplow of Muskegon says he's through backing a team there.

But a move is on foot to combine some Central league clubs with some from the class-D Ohio-Indiana league into a class-C loop. It may jell or flop at a meeting here tomorrow.

George Maines will represent Flint at the meeting and Central League President Thomas Halligan reportedly is bringing the Grand Rapids' proxy with him.

Dayton, O., and Charleston, W. Va., outside-Michigan members of the Central league are reported ready to join in formation of the new class-C league.

Possible Representatives

Frank M. Colley, president of the Ohio-Indiana league called the meeting here. He said he expected representatives from Springfield, Zanesville, Newark, Lima, and Marion, O., Richmond, Ind., and possibly Muncie, Ind., all currently or formerly members.

Parkesburg, W Va., also has indicated interest.

Under baseball law a league which operated in 1952, but a new league doesn't need to post bond until 10 days after it is organized. Cooley said he considered Feb. 1 an absolute deadline for formation of a new league.

"And," he continued, "we'll have to get some pretty definite commitments from at least six clubs at Sunday's meeting, if we're going to operate this year. We just can't go with less than six clubs."

He said if a class-C circuit is formed it likely will be known as the Mid-West league, adding that the Ohio-Indiana members are definite in their plan to move up to class-C.

Central league members, if they joined, would have to drop two classifications. No members have iron-clad working agreements with major league clubs.

Unbeaten Gwinn At Bark River Tonight

BARK RIVER — The Gwinn Model Towners, one of the seven undefeated basketball teams above the Straits, will invade the Bark River-Harris gym tonight to take on Coach Stan Wiinikainen's Broncos.

Gwinn stretched its victory streak last night with a 58-50 verdict over the Munising Mustangs. Bark River dropped a 39-34 decision to Rapid River.

Michigan Faces Big Ten Class

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP) — Michigan's slowly-improving basketball squad left here today for the start of one of its most grueling Western conference basketball campaigns.

Coach Ernie Mc Coy and his 12-man squad flew to Bloomington, Ind., to launch their 14-game league schedule against the free-wheeling, unbeaten Indiana Hoosiers tonight.

Indiana, paced by a high scoring freshman, Don Schlundt, and Sam Miranda, have gotten off about 90 shots a game compared with the 60 thrown by the Michigan squad.

The Wolverines will have to be in peak form to face that club as they will in successive games against Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Michigan State. All are unbeaten except Minnesota.

Last In 1950

A last-place finisher in the Big Ten last year, Michigan won three of seven non-league contests this season and began to jell divisely as Freshman Don Eaddy took over at guard and Sophomore Milt Mead developed at forward opposite Captain Jim Skala.

Also included in the travelling squad were forwards Jack Levitt, John Codwell and Ralph Kaufmann; centers Bob Jewell and Bruce Allen; and guards Bob Topp and Ray Pavichevich.

Others asked were Bud Gould, Detroit, and John Heddon, Dowagiac, Mich.

Connecticut Cagers Freeze Ball For Win

STORRS, Conn. — (AP) — University of Connecticut just made a 59-58 basketball victory over Wayne University of Detroit last night by freezing the ball the last three minutes to protect a thin lead.

Connecticut held onto the ball after Worthy Patterson was awarded a free throw and made the score 59-56. Wayne's Johnny Kline managed to make one more basket before the final gun sounded, ending the tight contest. The score was tied at the half, 32-all.

Norwegian Champion Lauds U. S. Skiers, Expects Big Struggle At Winter Olympics

By JOHNNY McCALLUM
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Guttorm Berge gave a pretty fair exhibition of things to come the past 12 months sweeping through this continent's finest ski competition like a prairie fire.

The Smorgasbord Kid stole everything in the house but the real estate.

The 22-year-old Norwegian returned to Oslo the other day where shortly he begins training to help defend his country's upholstered laurels in the winter Olympic games.

The VI edition of the international winter carnival is scheduled for Oslo, Feb. 14-25.

Berge's performances on mountain tops during 1951 shone like diamonds at high noon. While enrolled as an exchange student at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., he bagged 16 first-place medals, including the national slalom, North American slalom and combined, and international intercollegiate downhill, slalom and combined crowns.

U. S. Improving

Despite the ease with which he jumped, stemmed and schussed past New World rivals, the Norwegian winter Olympic team member was lavish in his praise of America's steady improvement in the sport.

"In the two years I have been here," he said, "American skiers have made tremendous strides. They should give Norway exceptional competition in both men's and women's downhill and slalom events."

He doesn't see too much danger for his homeland in the jumping events, however.

"We have four men among the world's top jumpers," he pointed out. "Torbjorn Falkanger, Hans Bjornstad, Chris Mohn and Berger Ruud all can leap between 270 and 300 feet."

Berge said that Andrea Mead, Rutland, Vt., and Katy Rodolf, Hayden, Colo., are the most promising lady skiers in the United States; the Wegeman brothers, Paul and Keith, of Denver, Col., brightest discoveries among our male competitors.

"I've skied with Andrea Mead and Katy Rodolf, wouldn't be surprised if they duplicate Gretchen Fraser's win in the 1948 Olympics," Berge confided.

Gretchen Fraser, the pigtailed Vancouver, Wash., housewife, was the first American to win a ski event, is manager of the women's team this trip.

Berge is a stocky, sandy little guy with a twinkling grin that seems to be built into his features, an undisciplined heart, and an ignorance of the emotion of fear that you weren't believe it. He's unbelieveably tough. He has had to be—to beat the injury jinx that has plagued him.

GANGWAY — Guttorm Berge's amazing sense of balance helps account for the 18 first places he has won in American and International ski competition during 1951. (NEA Photo)

In 1948, at 18 the youngest skier in the Games, he hit a hole traveling 65 miles an hour, sprained his left ankle and knee. Two winters ago he was practicing for the World Championships at Aspen, Colo., suffered a concussion, yet returned from the hospital in time to finish eighth in a field of 70.

"Warming up for the downhill event the next day," he related, "I cracked up again, breaking my left arm, chipping seven teeth and suffering another concussion."

That finished the game, durable Norwegian youth —for two months.

He was awarded a foreign scholarship to Whitman College the following spring, entered and won the school's invitational ski meet at Tollgate, Ore., with his arm in a cast.

You gather by all this that the young man is very strong-minded. It's a good thing he never decided to take up the tuba.

Berge thinks American skiers would be better if they adopted more rigid conditioning methods.

"They ride too much," he asserts. "Too many buses, subways, elevators, escalators and automobiles. Not enough walking. When your legs are flabby, your skiing is, too."

Guttorm Berge is a modern gent with old-fashioned ideas of what makes a champion.

Hawks Invade Calumet Armory Rink Tonight

The Escanaba Hawks, victorious by a 9-2 margin over the Marquette Sentinels in their first home game here last Wednesday night, will be in quest of their first triumph away from home when they clash with the Calumet Radars in the big Calumet Armory rink at 8:15 tonight.

The margin of victory over the Sentinels Wednesday, which avenged an early loss in Marquette, indicates the Hawks are rapidly getting their "ice legs" and another fast workout here last night helped considerably.

Despite the disadvantage of playing on Calumet's big rink (195 feet long and 85 feet wide), it is the consensus in the Hawk camp that if the Escanabans pass the puck as they did against Marquette Wednesday and if Ben Artwich, stellar goalie, continues to get more help from defensive stalwarts like Ed Broughton, Jerry Taggliabracci, Lolly Rose and George Petaja, they have a good chance of upsetting the Radars tonight.

Beating Calumet and Portage Lake at home is something akin to a Pacific Coast representative beating a Big Ten team in the Rose Bowl, but, of course, it can be done, and the Hawks hope to be the team to do it tonight

After tonight's game, the Calumet Radars will play a return game in Escanaba next Wednesday night. Frank "Puppy" Gresnick, popular bald-headed defenseman or center, again is leading the Calumet forces. Other standouts are Frank Sotlich, goalie; Dave Moyle, Wayne Lehto, defense, and Pete Lehto, John Dahlgren, Whitey Juopperi, John Gipp, Milt Makolin and Ace Winiamaki, forwards.

Making the trip from Escanaba will be Ted and Marc Olson, Joe Ricci, Buddy Provo, Guy Poce, George Petaja, Lolly Rose, Carl Eastman, Jerry Taggliabracci, Neil Sinclair, Les Young and Bill Bovin. They will leave about 3:30 and pick up Ed Broughton in Manistique and meet Burt Petaja and Ben Artwich in Calumet.

Twenty Escanaba youngsters worked out after the regular Hawk practice last night, Coach Marc Olson reported. The Hawks will work out again Monday in preparation for the Wednesday tilt with Calumet.

"We haven't closed the gates on our lineup by any means," Coach Olson said. "We want all fellows who want to try out to show up for practice Monday night at 7:30. There will be some changes, and everyone has a chance to make the final squad of 15. We have until January 26 to make up our minds."

Leading the Emeralds on the scoreboard was Don St. John, playing his first game for Manistique. He had missed the pre-holiday games because of an injury.

Brennan and Taylor paced the Indians with 12 and 10 points.

The win gives Manistique a record of four victories and two losses this season. They are undefeated in Conference play with three wins.

Plan TV For Cage Tourneys

CHICAGO — (AP) — Indiana, Iowa, Ohio and Oklahoma plan to televise their state high school basketball tournaments this season.

H. V. Porter, executive-secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations, currently holding its winter meeting, said today that possibly more state cage meets will be telecast.

Indiana and Iowa will televise their state cage finals for the first time, Porter said. Oklahoma and Ohio have done so in the past.

Minnesota and Georgia have declined such a program, contending experimental video last year resulted in attendance decreases. Most other members of the federation are so far undecided, Porter said.

Charles Forsythe of Lansing, Mich., and Cliff Fagan of Marinette, Wis., directors of prep athletics in their respective states, said no interest has been shown thus far or inquiries made concerning television of basketball finals.

Pro Status

Porter reported there was "growing sentiment" throughout the country to rule prep athletes ineligible for sports if they sign a contract to play any type of professional sports.

"In the past, some schools did not rule an athlete ineligible merely for signing a contract before his graduation," Porter explained. "He was ineligible only if he competed under that contract. The feeling now is that he is a pro as soon as he signs."

Porter also reported that during last football season seven high school players were fatally injured in games. He said:

"This number of fatalities is considered small when you consider that approximately 650,000 high school boys were playing football. There were nine fatalities in 1950."

HERMANSVILLE — The Rodman's Bar Foxes will take on the Iron Mountain Zephyrs here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a return engagement in independent cage ranks.

Grid Coaching Jobs Open In College And Pro Ranks

NEW YORK — (AP) — Football coaches looking for jobs in a major college or professional ranks may apply to at least three schools and two members of the National Football league.

And there may be a fourth opening among the nation's top collegiate gridiron powers before another day rolls around.

Jobs are open at Pittsburgh, Indiana and Arizona among the colleges and at Washington and the Chicago Cardinals in the NFL. Forest Evashevski has told Washington State authorities he'll tell them by tomorrow whether he'll be back at the helm of the Cougars.

Actually Pittsburgh still has a coach in Athletic Director Tom Hamilton but the war time organizer of Navy athletics has announced he doesn't want the job again. He stepped in last season when Len Casanova resigned in July to take over the coaching reins at the University of Oregon.

80 Seek Job

Hamilton was scheduled to sit down with the school's athletic committee today to talk over the situation. Some 80 men have applied for the job, including Johnny Michelosen, former coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the NFL; Red Dawson, backfield coach at Michigan State and Bill Glassford, youthful mentor at Nebraska.

There have been no announcements from either Indiana or Arizona regarding replacements for Clyde Smith and Bob Winslow, respectively. Both stepped out last fall after their teams failed to play up to expectations.

The Cardinals are looking for a replacement for Curley Lambeau, who quit the pro club before the end of the season. Joseph L. Kuharich, coach of the University of San Francisco's unbeaten eleven last year, is reported to be the No. 1 man in line for the job.

Kuharich announced his resignation at San Francisco before the school dropped football along with Loyola of Los Angeles.

Redskins Coachless

George Marshall also is searching for a man to coach his Washington Redskins in the NFL. Dick Todd took over the Redskins late in October when Marshall fired Herman Ball and was unable to obtain Hunk Anderson from the Chicago Bears.

There also is a possibility the Philadelphia Eagles will have a new coach. Wayne Milner, who replacing the ailing Bo McMillin early in the season, didn't have too much success with the club.

Iowa also may be in line for a new coach although no member of the athletic control board has said it is seeking a replacement for Leonard Raffensperger. And Raffensperger has not offered to step down.

But Athletic Director Paul Brechler admitted three members of the board, including himself, interviewed Evashevski recently in Denver, and are preparing possible alternatives to present to the entire board.

Cage Hopes Of Huskies Jolted

NEW YORK—(AP)— Hopes of the University of Washington Huskies for the No. 1 national basketball ranking were jolted last night.

Currently ranked 3rd in the Associated Press poll the Huskies were whipped by underdog Idaho, 56-51, as they opened defense of their Pacific Coast conference title on their home court at Seattle.

Idaho, expected to lose by 15 points, won the hard way. Washington took a 10-point lead in the second quarter at 22-12 and seemed well on the way to its 10th straight victory. But Idaho rallied to tie the score at 29-29 at halftime, then went into the lead for the first time at 38-37 in the third quarter.

Froze Ball

Washington never regained the lead. Idaho froze the ball in the last four minutes, tactics that led to three more baskets as the desperate Huskies were caught out of position.

The Oklahoma Aggies had their usual home court trouble with DePaul at Stillwater, Okla., but a hook shot by Bob Pager with 45 seconds left gave the Aggies a 52-49 triumph.

Houston nipped Tulsa, 42 to 41, in an exciting finish at Houston that saw the lead change hands three times in the last 36 seconds.

UCLA walloped Stanford, 81-63, and California nicked Southern California, 65-55.

In the East Colgate edged Bucknell, 57-53, in a game that saw the lead change hands 13 times. And St. Peters of New Jersey upset Manhattan 72-64.

Annual K. C. Track Meet Is Set Tonight

NEW YORK — (AP)—The scramble for spots on the United States Olympic team gets underway in earnest tonight when the Columbus Council, Knights of Columbus, holds its 20th annual track meet.

Fred Wilt, who comes as close to being a cinch to take a spot on the team as anyone, will open his campaign in the Conklin two-mile run.

Horace Ashenfelter, a fellow G-man, who also has high hopes of gaining a spot will be the only other scratch starter besides Wilt. Walter Mehl, who ran the distance in 9:03.4 15 years ago, is the current titlist.

Roscoe Browne, national AAU 1000-yard king goes against Sgt. Mal Whitfield of the Air Force in the 880.

Three Par Breakers In Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The names that weren't on hand made bigger news today than the names that were, as the $17,500 Los Angeles Open golf tournament went into its second day.

The field was paced by Jack Burke jr., whose name would be unfamiliar to many were it not for his father, a great competitor of years gone by.

Young Burke, 29, broke out in birdies on the last nine to finish with 36-33—69 over Riviera Country club's tough 7,020-yard, par 35-36—71 course.

Two Other Pars

Only two others shaded par in a day surprisingly short of sensations. The pair, Al Brosh of Garden City, N. Y., and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., also are relative unknowns in the big time. They carded identical 34-36—70s.

Usually this rich tournament, its purse raised $2,500 this year, attracts the best of the winter golf clan. But the list of those who aren't here is head by the pair who battled it out in a classic playoff for the title two years ago—Sam Snead and Ben Hogan. They announced several weeks ago they wouldn't enter.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist, did. But he lasted only 11 holes. He turned up at the course with a severely strained set of wrist ligaments. After a visit to the doctor for two shots of novocain, he teed off. But the pain was too great and he was six strokes over par when he bowed out.

Lawson Little was a late withdrawal, pleading strep throat. What caused raised eyebrows at the 19th hole was that only one of the six playing members of the professional Golf association's tournament committe was on hand.

Not Sanctioned

He is Horton Smith, PGA president, who shot a 76.

Chick Harbert and Clayton Heafner didn't compete here last year and didn't plan to this time, and Dave Douglas is still debating whether to follow the winter tournament trail at all. Little is the sixth.

Eyebrows went up because of a dispute between the PGA and the sponsoring Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, over which would control the tournament. The Junior Chamber stayed in the driver's seat, but the PGA declined to sanction it, although not forbidding its members to enter.

Lloyd Mangrum, defending champ, was the big name at 73. Of other leading money winners in 1951, Jerry Barber also had 73, Jim Ferrier 74, Skee Riegel, 75, Doug Ford and Farty Furgol, 76, Jimmy Demaret 78 and Lew Worsham 82.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — When the U. of Kentucky's decision to limit out-of-state football scholarships to five means that Bear Bryant has his "farm system" established? . . . Only last spring Bear explained that he had to go so far afield for players because Kentucky high schools didn't produce enough and that he was just beginning to get talent trained by his former players who had become coaches . . . He also complained rather bitterly about some features of the high school setup which kept many small town boys from playing football . . . Looks as if the new deal had come up with a pretty good idea for eliminating some of football's troubles and several coaches agree with his idea . . . But it won't work in all cases . . . The supply still isn't equal to the demand in some places and there still are states like Ohio and Pennsylvania where its vice versa.

He Was Bushed

Byron Townsend, the hard-luck Texas fullback, thought he had suffered about every imaginable kind of injury during the football season . . . Week after week he was kept from doing his best by one hurt or another . . . Came the end of the campaign, Byron decided to get away from it all by taking a deer hunting trip . . . He want out in the cedar bush, picked himself a likely spot and climbed a tree to ambush a buck . . . Yeah, that's it; he fell out.

Sportspourri

Phil Rizzuto is arranging to have his own television show under the guidance of Frank Scott, former Yankee road secretary who handles the business for Tommy Henrich and a lot of other baseballers . . . Charles Burlingame, 80-year-old former jockey who visits Tropical Park regularly, thinks that the stall gate is chiefly responsible for the improvement in racing since his day . . . Jesse Arnelle, six-foot-five, 215 pound freshman from New Rochelle, N. Y., may turn out to be the best all-around athlete in Penn State history . . . He easily moved into top spots in football and basketball and is reported to be a first-rate hurler and quarter-miler . . . Lew Fonseca, narrating the World Series movie, described one play as a 'sacrifice fly"—which hasn't been in the rules for some 20 years.

Weak End Notes

Two Michigan State co-eds aren't going to let those football and basketball players grab all the laurels . . . Elaine Lewicki just won her second national indoor girls tennis championship and Ginny Baxter made the Olympic figure skating team . . . Florida State U. probably is the only college that keeps all-time volleyball statistics . . . It isn't a mistake that the 1952 national YMCA swim meet is listed for the York, Pa., YWCA. The gals just have a better pool . . . Final National Collegiate Athletic bureau statistics reveal that New York U. and Detroit U. were tied for first in one department — "Most opponents' fumbles recovered." . . . It was an unkind suggestion by a NYU guy who said: "That just proves our players were always on the ground."

SITTING PRETTY — Johnny Simpson won an all-time high of $333,136 at the trots in 1951. The 31-year-old product of Chester, S. C., copped 118 races to show the way in that category as well. (NEA Photo)

Par Mangled In Women's Open Meet

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — (AP)— Four golf gals who undercut par were a good jump out front in the Jacksonville Women's Open golf tournament to start today's second round.

Louise Suggs of Carrollton, Ga., who was the third highest money winner of the 1951 tour, and Betsy Rawls of Austin, Tex., the National Open champion, shared first place after Friday's first 18 holes.

Each shot a three under par record 73 over the 6,282 yard Brentwood Municipal course. Women's record for the layout was 74.

Babe Zaharias of Tampa, winner of 10 of last year's 20 women's tournaments and again top money winner, and Mary Lena Faulk, amateur of Thomasville, Ga., were a stroke behind at 74.

Patty Berg of St. Andrews, Ill, and the Bauer sisters, Marlene and Alice of Sarasota, Fla., had 79 each.

UCLA's longest punt return for a touchdown in '51 was 73 yards by Pete Dailey in the Texas A&M game.

College Seniors Clash For Cash In Bowl Game

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MOBILE, Ala.—(AP)—For the first time in their lives 50 star players from 33 schools in 24 states play a game of football today for the sake of cash—and not for college spirit or glory.

The game—called the Senior Bowl because all the stars are in their final college year—gives each player on the winning team $500 and each player on the losing team $400.

A tie game and they split the pot at the rate of $450 per helping.

For convenience the group of 50 is divided as equally as possible and the teams are called North and South.

South Victories

In two previous Senior Bowls the South squad won 20-13 and 19-16. This year the North squad looks at least a touchdown better on the strength of a better line, four extra days of working together, and a wet field.

The Southerners — with Bill Wade of Vanderbilt and Babe Parilli of Kentucky—are passing specialists, and a wet field will do them no good.

The names North and South are misleading. Tulane and South Carolina have players on each squad. Florida State supplied guard Bill Dawkins to the Yanks. Two men from Arkansas are on the North and center Frank Mittendorf of Cincinnati plays for the South.

The Rebels are coached by Steve Owen, head man of the professional New York Giants. The Yanks, including seven Texans, are coached by Wilbur Eubanks and Fritz Heisler, assistant coaches of the Cleveland Browns.

Paul Brown, regular Cleveland and North team coach was forced by his pro contract to leave the Senior Bowl Thursday and go to Los Angeles for the Pro Bowl game Jan. 11.

Scouts On Hand

Every professional team in major league football has either a head coach, an assistant or a scout here for the game. The pro draft Jan. 17 in New York will be heavily influenced by what the 50 players do here today.

Schools represented on the squads are Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Cornell, Texas, Southern California, Wisconsin, Iowa, Maryland, Ohio State, Mississippi, Miami, Mississippi Southern, Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi State, Vanderbilt, South Carolina, Florida, Clemson, L. S. U., Georgia Tech, Tulane, Auburn, Northwestern, Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Cincinnati, Michigan State, Texas Aggies, Baylor and Florida State.

In accepting pay for playing the game, most of the stars make themselves ineligible for various spring college sports.

Big Ten Opens Title Scramble

CHICAGO—(AP)—Boasting four undefeated teams and a total record of 49 wins against 21 losses in non-league action, the Big Ten will open its basketball championship race tonight.

Undefeated Iowa and Michigan State clash at East Lansing. Both have unmarred records in seven non-conference games.

The other two all-winning teams, Illinois and Indiana, will be shooting for their eighth consecutive victories against Minnesota (5-3) and Michigan (3-4), respectively.

Second In Poll

The Illini, ranked second in this week's national (AP) poll, face the Gophers at Minneapolis. Indiana, rated No. 5 nationally, will be playing at home against the Wolverines.

Completing tonight's Big Ten card. Ohio State (2-5) is at Northwestern (2-4) and Purdue (5-2) is at Wisconsin (4-3).

Michigan State, the practice season's biggest surprise, has the best defensive mark by holding opponents to a mere 46.6 points a game. On attack, the Spartans have clicked for a 54.5 average, running up a 66-52 win over Notre Dame Wednesday for their biggest scoring burst thus far.

The most potent scoring team is Indiana with a 75.9 average while Illinois is next with 72.6 and Iowa third with 66.1.

Karas Talks On Transportation

Today transportation is an important element in the lives of every person, city dwellers being dependent on good roads in the townships and rural folk dependent on good thoroughfares through the city, William J. Karas, superintendent of the Delta County Road commission told members of the Gladstone Lions club Thursday evening.

Karas stressed the importance of road construction and maintenance and said that in recent years the highway department has been deteriorating because of the inability to finance new construction and maintain present highways in proper manner.

Touching on the manner in which highway funds derived from gas tax monies are apportioned, the speaker said that 44 per cent went to the State Highway Department, 37 per cent to the county road commission for primary roads and 19 per cent to so-called local roads.

The Delta county road commission had only a $192,000 budget the past fiscal year, had to borrow $45,000 and operate under $70,000 deficit spending.

This coming year it will receive $316,000 but because of the deficit and loan it will mean that the actual amount available will not be much greater than the year before. Because of this the road commission will not be able to offer much greater or improved service.

Sea and air lanes are produced by nature but highways have to be built and maintained. He alluded to an estimate made in 1932 that by 1950 there would be 48 million autos on the highways and this number had been topped by two million and highway construction and improvement had not kept pace.

Auto firms, auto accessory plants and gasoline refineries have interested themselves in promotion of better roads and highways today, the speaker said.

A film entitled "Let's Get Michigan Out of the Mud" was shown by Joe Barak.

New Icebreaker Ready For Duty

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—The state highway department today said its new icebreaker-ferry Vacationland is expected to head north next Tuesday or Wednesday to start ferry duty in the Straits of Mackinac.

The $4,600,000 ferry is at present docked at the Great Lakes Engineering Co. pier at River Rouge where its four Diesel engines have been undergoing a final testing.

The Vacationland will go on a final shakedown run on the Detroit river and Lake Erie Monday. If the shakedown is satisfactory, the Vacationland will head for St. Ignace Tuesday or Wednesday, the highway department said.

The Vacationland will go on ferry duty as soon as it arrives at the Straits. The winter ferry schedule will go into effect at that time.

The Strait's ferries are currently on a schedule of departures every hour and a half from Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. The winter schedule will consist of departures every three hours starting at 6 a. m. and ending at 9 p. m. at St. Ignace and starting at 7:30 a. m. and ending at 10:30 p. m. at Mackinaw City.

The ferries Petoskey, Munising, Cheboygan and Straits of Mackinac now in service, will be idle for the winter and will undergo an overhauling and repair to prepare them for duty again in the spring.

Gabby Hayes Misses Chance To Plug Thug

NEW YORK — (AP) — Actor Gabby Hayes, the bewniskered idol of televiewing kids, missed a real-life drama in his penthouse apartment yesterday. His secretary was robbed on one floor while he chatted with his wife and niece on another.

The secretary, Miss Helen Kelly, said two men accosted her in the apartment, saying they were detectives working on a case. After warning her to make no outcry, they fled with her $500 diamond ring, a wrist watch and $100 in cash. The men apparently entered and escaped through a terrace doorway.

All the while, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes and their niece, Katherine Laich of North Hollywood, Calif., were in the living room.

Said Gabby to Miss Kelly:

"Why didn't you shout? I'd have got them with my trusty six-shooters."

NEW YORK—(AP)—Prices were a little higher today in a Stock Market that was only moderately active at best.

Gains extended a little past a point at the most among leaders with losses held down in a fractional range.

Railroads, which this week have distinguished themselves as leaders, were steady today with trading activity limited.

A few individual issues were singled out for attention. American Telephone again was comparatively active and a small fraction higher. It topped the most active list two days ago and was in second place yesterday.

International Packers dropped 1¼ at 13½ on a block of 4,500 shares and thereafter lost a little more. Zenith was active at times and a major fraction higher.

This is the fifth straight session that the market has moved ahead. None of the gains was spectacular, but together they provided a solid base for bullish hopes that substantial progress may be made soon on resumption of the major bull market trend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed yesterday at $90.60, less than $2 under the 21-year peak reached last October.

Corporate bonds were narrowly mixed.

Women Take Star Roles In '52 Politcal Lineup

By SIGRID ARNE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON — Women will be more than "helpers" in the 1952 presidential campaign.

For one thing, more women than men can vote in this country now. In 1950 there were 49,419,000 women eligible to vote and only 47,499,000 men.

So both the Republican and Democratic National Committees have thumping programs to educate women voters. Both women's divisions report that more women are taking active parts in local politics. They report larger numbers of younger women are active. And Republican headquarters finds that they are enlisting more women in business and the professions.

Both Republican and Democratic women leaders have been busy through 1951. For several years the Democratic women have worked on the slogan "Campaigns are won between elections." On that slogan they have kept party workers together fighting for local issues right through the four years that intervene between presidential campaigns.

Now the Republican women are hard at work on a campaign they call "Work and Win."

Education Programs

Both women's divisions have emphasized educational programs to help the voters understand issues and their effect on individual homes. The women have turned out such readable letters and pamphlets that now the major part of their output goes to both men and women county leaders for distribution to voters.

The Democratic women have turned out a "Guide Book." The Republican women are mailing out a "Workers' Manual." Both detail how to get acquainted with voters in the precinct, how to explain the issues, what to do in the last month of the campaign and on election day.

The Republican manual is more detailed. For example, it shows the precinct worker just how to make out cards on every voter in the area, whether Republican, Democrat or "Fair Deal Democrat."

The card asks that the precinct captain find out whether the voter is registered, whether he needs transportation on election day, whether the family will need a baby sitter and whether members of the family will need absentee ballots mailed to them.

This coming year women precint workers will be calling from door-to-door. Both parties are polishing up whirlwind campaigns for next October.

Women will man the motor pools on election day, do the baby sitting, man the telephones to check which of the registered voters have failed to show up at the polls.

Forceful Women

Both parties have handsome, forceful women as the directors of their women's divisions.

India Edwards, a former Chicago newspaper woman, is the Democrat's firebrand. She has never let down since the 1948 elections. Just recently she flew back and forth, Washington to California, twice in one week just to make speeches.

Through 1951 she has had top ranking Democratic women on the road making speeches, including the wives of the secretaries of Agriculture and Interior — Mrs. Charles F. Brannan and Mrs. Oscar Chapman—and two government office holders, Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, and Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, the U. S. treasurer.

During the campaign the Democrats expect to call on one-time Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and on two diplomats, Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, and Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, ambassador to Denmark.

Mrs. Edwards right now is particularly happy over the numbers of women who have signed up as Democratic party workers who were once workers in on-partisan organizations such as the League of Women Voters.

Republican women are led by Mrs. Gilford Mayes of Idaho. She came up the hard way in the party, with 20 years of work behind her, starting with ringing door bells in the precincts. Her so small headquarters crew in Washington is tied in with 5,000 local women's Republican clubs.

Her staff started "political schools" two years ago to educate precinct voters on the issues and on how to approach voters. Those schools will be held all over the country this next year. Eight teams of Republican party experts have been set up to run the schools which meet for one to three days.

Work For Party

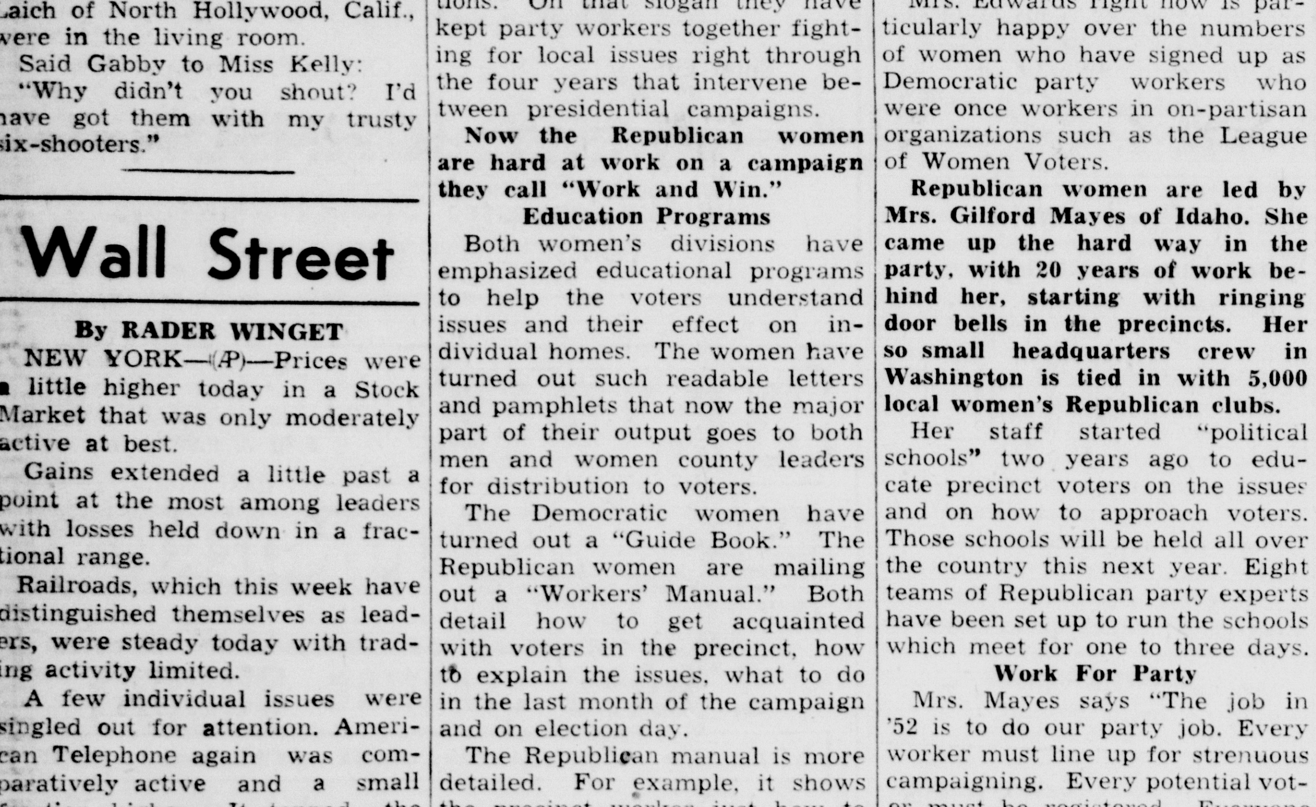
Mrs. Mayes says "The job in '52 is to do our party job. Every worker must line up for strenuous campaigning. Every potential voter must be registered. Everyone registered must vote. Let's not repeat the 'lost vote' situations in previous presidential elections. Let's put the stay-at-homers to shame."

Women gained responsible jobs in the Republican party a little more slowly than they did in the Democratic party, but now them are surging forward.

Republican headquarters reports that 23 women are now serving as county chairmen of Republican party organizations. Women are acting as chairmen of city organizations—five in Connecticut and 18 in Massachusetts. The party has women vice-chairmen in 2,012 counties out of the total 3,069 counties in the nation.

There is no way of knowing how important the women's vote will be to either party in 1952 because the national vote has never been counted for men and women voters.

But in 1948 the Democratic women's division took a spot sampling at voting booths. It found that women voters made up the following percentages: Iowa 52 per cent, Cook county (Chicago) 55 per cent, Wayne county (Detroit) 63 per cent, Ohio 65 per cent. In Minnesota women voted two to one.



CHANGES IN THE HOUSE—Newsmap above shows 16 states where population changes caused a shift of 14 seats in the House of Representatives. Redistricting to bring about the changes must be finished in time for the 1952 general electon when the 83rd Congress is chosen. Republicans are confident the reshuffling will bring them gains while Democrats concede some losses are possible.

Lower Michigan Roads Slippery

(By The Associated Press)

Southern Michigan dug out today from a fresh batch of snow.

A surprise fall of three to four inches of snow blanketed most of the southern peninsula last night and slowed traffic to a crawl before salting crews got into action.

Motorists could look to another weekend of slippery driving. Freezing temperatures were expected to keep heavy snow accumulations on side streets and secondary roads.

The state highway department warned motorists of very extensive slippery conditions on state trunk lines in the lower three-fourths of the Lower Peninsula. In the Upper Peninsula, driving conditions were normal.

In Detroit, a Greyhound bus slid on icy pavement into the side of a haulaway truck last night. The bus driver and one passenger suffered minor injuries.

Federal Dragnet Goes After Kings Of Dope Traffic

within three weeks, Enslinger predicted.

He added he couldn't say where the jury is working because "if we even mentioned the name of the city, some of the men who are talking will be killed."

Meanwhile, the commissioner gave credit for the biggest mop-up of dope peddlers ever staged to undercover men who pose as illicit dealers. They work their way into the heart of the crime world, risking their lives to put racketeers behind bars.

About 100 Federal agents and 200 government-paid informers are remaining underground to continue the cleanup, he said. Scores had to give up their roles of danger and intrigue to make the arrests and appear in court with evidence.

Started In Texas

Anslinger said illicit drug traffic has been dealt a crippling blow. The drive is aimed especially at suppliers of teen-age drug addicts.

An alarming increase in drug addiction among youths "has been halted," the narcotics chief said. He added about 50 of those arrested were women.

The raids started before dawn yesterday in San Antonio, Texas, and spread with precision timing to most of the big cities across the country. About 100 peddlers were caught in Texas alone, 50 in New York, 50 in Philadelphia, and 30 in Washington.

Some who escaped are being sought today by agents with arrest warrants.

The crackdown was prepared so secretly there was no violence, even though some dope peddlers "are the most vicious type criminals in the United States," Anslinger said. "Many of them are killers. They are quick with a gun or knife."

Carefully Picked

Undercover men are picked carefully. The Mafia, described by the crime committee as a sinister underworld group with Italian connections, has a few U. S. undercover men it doesn't know about, picked because they can pass as Italians.

Chinese Tongs, or clubs, which deal in dope, have federal agents posing as Chinese. Negro agents work inside Negro dope rings, etc.

Some agents remain in the underworld as long as they aren't exposed. These men work other agents into the mob and the newcomers arrange to buy a load of narcotics. Just as the transfer is taking place, the newcomers make the arrest and the peddler is trapped.

bitter shock. Some already have performed the dreaded job of storing away the clothes and other personal possessions of their husbands.

Both Mayor Hair and Mayor Louis Harkins of West Frankfort said few would leave.

The United Mine Workers handed out $110,000 in burial payments from the union's funds. In addition, each widow was given at least $30 for immediate needs.

On Monday, the State Industrial Commission will begin work on claims under the Illinois compensaton law. The claims are paid by the operators of the mine to widows and other dependents of the victims.

Whitlow explained that a widow with no children will receive $6,800 in weekly payments of $25.50. The maximum is $9,600 for a widow with four children, paid in weekly installments of $34.

'Stars & Stripes' For GI's Only

BONN, Germany — (AP) — A bootleg copy of the Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, has sent State Department and Army officials into a tizzy. It raised this question:

How can German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer get his daily copy of Stars and Stripes—legally?

A high German official has been sending out a messenger daily to buy a bootleg copy. The catch is that a German cannot legally buy "Stripes". It sells only for American money — the scrip issued to troops — and Germans are forbidden by Army regulations from possessing scrip.

Some one suggested that the Army send Adenauer a complimentary copy each morning. But the Army's legal brains said "regulations" forbid giving away "Stripes". State Department officials are now poring through regulations to find if the department can foot the bill for Adenauer's "Stripes".

Coupon, Bill, Check—All Look Alike To Her

LOUISVILLE, Ky.— (AP) —Mrs. Harold Parker, of Holbrook, Mass., has been having trouble recently telling money and checks from mere cupons.

She sent in 300 premium coupons to the Brown and Williamson Corp., for a tablecloth. Then she got worried and sent the company a letter asking if they had found anything else besides coupons.

The company promptly located and returned $632.12 in cash and checks.

Thoughtful Women Write Polio Victims

WAUKEGAN, Ill. —(AP)— The three polio bachelors, Wilbur Wendt, Leo Grasser and 4-month-old Frank Novak, have become popular with the gals.

Letters from women from Boston Mass., to Pasadena, Cal., are rolling into their hospital room. Many of the letters are pats on the back for the polio victims. Others even hint of matrimony.

A news picture of the "polio three" appeared recently in newspapers from coast to coast.

Wild turkeys originally ranged from the Atlantic coast of North America to the Dakotas and from Southern Ontario to Southern Mexico.

Gold Crowns Valued At $100,000 Given To Church By Mothers

NEW YORK—(AP)—Two diamond studded gold crowns, their jewels contributed by 2,000 women parishioners, here placed on display in a Brooklyn Catholic church.

The crowns, insured for $100,000, will adorn an altar painting of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the Infant Jesus at the Regina Pacis Votive Shrine.

Many of their 500 diamonds were donated by women in gratitude for the safe return of their sons during World War II, according to the Right Rev. A. R. Cioffi, pastor of the church.

The Virgin's crown is a flat tiara measuring nine by six inches. It is bordered by 12 stars and the point of each is encrusted with a diamond. Other diamonds, sapphires and emeralds are worked into the design.

A similar tiara for the Infant Jesus measures four and one-half by six and one-half inches.

The painting itself is eight and one-half by six and one-half feet.

Philippine Smuggling Of War Materials To Red China Falls Off

HONG KONG—(AP)—The once-brisk trade in illegal war materials between the Philippines and Red China has fallen on evil times. Reliable sources said today.

They said the reason mainly was that the Reds were running low on foreign exchange and Filipino smugglers were short on scrap iron. Also Russia is supposedly sending gasoline to Red China.

These sources say the trade in gasoline and scrap iron—much of which flowed through the Hong Kong area—was flourishing 18 months ago. But it fell off to a dribble six months ago.

For that reason they said they found it hard to understand all the excitement in official Manila circles about investigating the illicit trade of Phlippines black marketeers with China.

New Library Opens With Festivity, Fun

BARRHEAD, Alta. — (AP) — Opening of a new library is usually a cut-and-dried affair but the youngsters really whooped it up in this small community north of Edmonton. More than 1,300 students and many parents attended the official opening of the second regional library in Alberta.

Twenty-six school buses brought them to the modern Barrhead school. They swarmed through the corridors, inspected the art exhibits, had their fill of hot dogs and soft drinks and heard speeches by government officials. It was topped off by a program of basketball, boxing, tumbling, movies and dancing. Persons who attended the opening bought library memberships at $1 each. The money will be used to expand the original stock books.

ple with a "build Michigan" program, which will be the heart of his campaign. He does not expect the Republicans to remove one of his issues during the session.

He has veiled his program largely to date, but undoubtedly he will repolish his demand for a corporation profits tax, he will oppose so-called "consumer taxes." He will present a bigger budget than last year, carefully explaining that it results from inflation plus a modicum of construction projects at the state hospitals and colleges.

The Republicans, also hiding their plans until the last moment, presumably will offer a tax program, too—but not the corporation profits tax and not one which has much chance of passing.

They, too, will have their own building program, their hope of a balanced budget, and their carefully worded statements on major issues.

"Captain Carlsen is jubilant and desires to remain on board in case the tow parts."

Dancy, who clambered over the freighter's stern rail last night to help Carlsen fix the tow lines, remained aboard with him.

He elected to see things through to a finish with the 37-year-old vessel's skipper so both will be available on the crippled ship to handle a new line if the one now fastened to the Flying Enterprise breaks in the strain of hauling the 6,711 ton ship through rolling seas.

Alone For Six Rays

The successful effort came only after 33 hours of effort from the time the Turmoil arrived. Part of the time she had to back off because the seas were too rough even to try to shoot a light "messenger" line aboard.

Carlsen was alone in the ship for more than six days until Dancy leaped onto the tilted deck last night.

His epic ordeal of the sea had lasted 10 days when the tow line was made fast. Hurricanes split his vessel across the middle, cracked the midships hold, let tons of water cascading through and knocked out the power so he couldn't steer into shipping lanes.

The crew of 40 and 10 passengers leaped for life into the churning seas after stand by help arrived.

COCONUT TREE TOPPLES

PENANG, Malaya — (AP) — A Malay woman and her four children narrowly escaped death in a village near here recently when a coconut tree, its roots undermined by heavy rains, toppled over and crashed into their kitchen. They were sleeping but a few feet away.
